Intimate Peeps Into The Doings Of Some Of The Delegates While Not Playing Politics

(By LABERT ST. CLAIR)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 30.—Mitch Palmer, the best looking Democratic candidate for the nomination, is getting trench feet from standing around the hotel lobbies shaking hands with delegates. He is spending eighteen hours a day at it, mostly with his hat off and his silver locks shining.

If Al Burleson, of the cabinet, does not quit running 'around town with his umbrella in hand, the native sons' association is going to have him Shanghaied and shot. It has not rained here since April.

Former Congressman Bellemy of South Carolina, is shocking cabinet members here by asking them about the health of their boss "Tom Wilson." Bellemy said he used to go to school with the president and can't help calling him Tom.

All otherwise dull sabbath was brightened by the arrival of Sis Roger Casement's sister, Mrs. Newton, who has a few words to say on the Irish question. Having lost her green hat on leaving her boat in New York, been caught in a folding door in Philadelphia, landed on the wrong train at Chicago and fed a blue plum that had aged too long in Laramie, Mrs. Newton got here in great speaking voice.

Republicans are everywhere around this convention. Hi Johnson is mingling with the delegates and representative Julius Kahn, who fell the Democratic fight for the draft bill is present in a fuzzie grey hat that would not go into a bushel basket.

Bob Woolley of the Interstate Commerce Commission has lost ten pounds in a week walking to his hotel a mile out and on top of a high hill.

Ray Baker, director of the mint and the proudest father in the world, is spending his idle moments whittling out a hobby horse for his boy. Being worth several millions, the boy could buy a horse, but Ray says his whittling ranks with the best.

Badge of honors are easily carried away by the Texas delegates. The ribbon bears the words "Cock-a-doodle-doo, who's who? McAdoo," and the pin is a pair of long horns almost life size.

Riley Wilson of Charleston, W. Va., the world's wettest candidate for Congress, is wearing blue glasses to prevent him seeing Frisco's past glories in their true light.

While on the subject, Mayor Rolph gave a party to the scribes today at his country place and "Hugs" Hier assumed charge of the mayor's candidacy for president. "Hugs" promises to go through to the last keg.

Dr. Burriss Jenkins, who was to place McAdoo in nomination until he spilled the beans, used to preach but now he wears a loud checked suit with sweet peas in the button hole.

Bennett Clark, the former speaker's little boy, who is here ready to administer stimulants to his dad's presidential boom, now is fatter and bigger than his pa.

The chances of William Jennings Bryan getting his hair cut are very remote. Trims cost seventy five cents. White railships are cheap, though, so Bryan is having a glorious time.

Ed Meredith and Carter Glass are having a contest over who can make the wriest face when his presidential boom is mentioned. Still, having states instructed for them, they have to "confer" at length.

CANDIDATES PLACED IN NOMINATION; AGREE TO SLIGHTLY MOIST PLANK

League Of Nations Plank Just As President Wilson Wants It Has Been Tentatively Accepted

BALLOTING NOT EXPECT'D UNTIL LATE THURSDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30—According to administration chiefs the sub-committee of nine drafting the Democratic platform has practically agreed on a prohibition plank which is described as "slightly moist" and as being in "support of the constitutional amendment" but with declarations for personal liberty against "over-zealous interferences."

A League of Nations plank, administration chief said, has been agreed upon "just as Woodrow Wilson wants it, without the dotting of an "i" or the crossing of a "t".

As forecast it follows almost identically the line of the Virginia platform previously approved by President Wilson.

A careful count of the full committee and a survey of the convention, these administration chiefs said made them confident that William J. Bryan could not get his prohibition plank into the platform. The agreement was in such form, they said, that it was not improbable that their work would be laid before the full committee on resolutions late this afternoon.

At the suggestion of former Governor McCorkle, of West Virginia, members of the full committee were invited to file platform suggestions with the sub-committee.

The first suggested plank handed to the sub-committee was one by Senator Pomerene, of Ohio, regarding the League of Nations. It provided for ratification without "impairing reservations" but added that differences of opinion on that subject should be "so harmonized that the treaty may be ratified without unnecessary delay."

In handling the prohibition question administration leaders were reported to be maneuvering to bring before the convention a plank which could be championed as an "administration measure." To this end it was planned to include a clause endorsing President Wilson's veto of the Volstead act.

If this could be accomplished it was believed the administration strength on the convention floor would be more than sufficient to push it through.

That a floor fight on prohibition could be avoided was believed by administration leaders, as well as by the dry, to be impossible. On a straight wet and dry question, it was generally conceded that the majority of the delegates would vote dry, but the proposed "slightly moist" plank, backed with a declaration upholding President Wilson, was believed to have better than a good chance.

Little trouble over the administration treaty plank was expected in the sub-committee. Its handling was said to be left entirely to Secretary Colby for advocacy in the full committee tonight and also in the convention.

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—The Democratic national convention assembled today to hear candidates placed in nomination and with another last minute change in the plans of the McAdoo forces which finally precluded the presentation of his name. There were no changes respecting the placing of other candidates in nomination and the prospects were the convention would go through in a continuous session today and get all the nominating speeches out of the way, leaving tomorrow free for the balloting.

Although it was said by administration chiefs that the sub-committee of nine drafting the platform had virtually agreed in all important particulars the sub-committee after a brief conference with the membership of the resolutions committee made a public announcement that it was not ready to report and would work in secret until 7:30 tonight, when another report would be made to the full committee.

Meanwhile administration chiefs declared that a prohibition plank "slightly moist" had been agreed upon which would preclude the adoption of William Jennings Bryan's bone dry plank. They further predicted with finality that the League of Nations' plank would be adopted "just as Woodrow Wilson wants it, without the dotting of an "i" or the crossing of a "t".

Although the hour of meeting had been advanced today to 11 o'clock and the plan was to get an early start on the business of nomination which was sure to be interrupted with prolonged demonstrations, the delegates were not responsive to the idea of a prompt early start, and were as slow in arriving as they had been on any other day. The prospects were that the convention would be as late in getting under way as it had been on any other day since it began.

At 11:11 Chairman Robinson began whacking the gavel and called on the delegates to get into their seats. "We're ready," came the shout from several places on the floor.

The Cox delegates, however, insisted on having a demonstration and a song first, and the convention waited until they got through. There was a Cox demonstration of short duration, at its conclusion.

A Cox band garbed in brilliant red uniforms vied with the convention band in blaring out airs from a point in one of the galleries.

Chairman Robinson wanted to start up, but was in a tolerant mood and let the music go on. The Glee Club which accompanied the Cox delegation joined in the music and entertained the convention.

The convention band and the Cox band soon got into a contest. The convention band played "Over There," and the Cox band came back with "Dixie" to the delight of the southern delegates.

The convention band countered with "Hail, Hail, The Gang's All Here", and the organist played a central part, joining in with each. Electricity was in the air. Suppressed expectation of a noisy and spectacular day perched the hall and found its outlet in

"ANYTHING TO DEFEAT M'ADOO"

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1920, By the Portsmouth Times.)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30—"Anything to beat McAdoo."

That's the lineup here today.

Back of the movement are not merely the managers of the Cox and Palmer candidates but those who have the faint hope that a favorite son may be nominated or some dark horse who has a few votes now but who may grow as Harding did in Chicago, if the leaders in the race are eliminated. The Democratis may be the last people to admit that they would imitate anything Republican, but the spell of Republican strategy seems to be upon some of the managers here. Just as there was a combination to beat Leonard Wood at Chicago, there's a coalition afoot to defeat McAdoo. Just as states who have dark horses to trot forth are being urged to hold their votes intact for dark horses. The Palmer and Cox managers feel that if McAdoo does get up to 500 votes or so the veto power which they hold of one third of the votes or the opposition of the favorite son delegations will be sufficient to stop the selection of McAdoo.

But coalitions against McAdoo are not so easy to sustain here. This convention is not as closely controlled by leaders who can absolutely depend on their delegates in a prolonged series of ballots. Perhaps the thing that has hurt McAdoo in the last 24 hours is the too rapid growth of his boom before the balloting starts coupled with the opening of headquarters by overzealous friends. Anything which gives the impression that McAdoo is an active candidate, notwithstanding his professions to the contrary, gives an opportunity for opponents of McAdoo to keep on questioning his sincerity. And delegates are quick to take advantage of any such opportunity. They are already saying McAdoo is a party to a game of super-strategy here and are attacking him for it. But William Gibbs McAdoo himself is doing all in his power to squelch efforts to make him an active candidate. He has again asked Dr. Burris Jenkins, of

Boyd, Tabor G. O. P. Electors At Large

COLUMBUS, O., June 30.—In a brief session, not lasting more than 30 minutes, the Republican state convention this morning adopted a platform, selected two presidential electors at large, ratified the selections made yesterday by district caucuses of district electors, and adjourned sine die. The presidential electors at large elected were W. H. Boyd, Cleveland, and L. J. Tabor, Barnesville, master of the state grange.

The Republican state platform is one of the shortest on record, containing less than 1,000 words. It is silent on suffrage and the wet and dry question.

The taxation plank affirms the Smith one percent law, declares for a rigid debt limitation and asserts that local sub-divisions "should not be limited in their ability to pay existing obligations authorized by law and by a vote of the people." It approves exceeding the limitations of the Smith one percent law only upon a vote of the people.

Work of the last general assembly is approved. It demands that the state bureau of markets be placed on a functioning basis and encourages various activities designed to encourage farm production. Price fixing by the government "which interferes with the natural law of supply and demand" is denounced.

Suffragists Disappointed

The platform was approved by the three candidates for governor, Cole, Davis and McCulloch before it was adopted. Militant suffragists, representing the national woman's party expressed disappointment in that it did not recognize their demands that the state call upon the legislatures of Vermont and Connecticut to ratify suffrage amendment. Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, for years president of the Ohio Woman's Suffrage Association, however, was not disappointed. She said there was nothing the state could do. "Our job is finished so far as Ohio is concerned," said Mrs. Upton. "Our legislature has ratified and the supreme court has ruled that there can be no referendum on this action." She said the National League of Woman voters was working quietly and effectively for ratification in other states.

Senator Harding sent a telegram of congratulations to the Ohio convention at its session this morning.

Harding Sends Telegram

Senator Harding's telegram to the convention follows:

"It is not possible to recall a Republican state convention in Ohio in 20 years which I have not attended as a delegate or as an interested spectator, sharing in some way the en-

HAMBONE'S MEDITATIONS

G. O. P. State Platform Is Silent On Suffrage And Also Prohibition

COLUMBUS, O., June 30.—Following is the text of the Republican state platform as approved by the resolutions committee and adopted by the convention without opposition.

The Republican party of Ohio in convention assembled endorses the platform adopted by the Republican national convention on June 10, 1920.

We hail with profound satisfaction the nomination of our distinguished fellow citizen, Warren G. Harding, for the presidency as an honor richly merited by his devoted service to his country and his fearless championship of its most cherished institutions. With equal cordiality we endorse the nomination of Calvin Coolidge, of Massachusetts, for vice president. The election of these men will insure a return to constitutional government.

We declare for a standard of Americanism that contemplates the welfare of, and pledges itself to the real protection of every American citizen regardless of racial extraction, in the enjoyment of all rights and privileges guaranteed by our federal constitution.

Denounce Lynching

We denounce lynching as a national disgrace and a crime against law and order. We favor the enactment of a federal law to prevent the same.

We recognize the service to our country of the splendid veterans of all our wars and so far as a grateful country may go, we pledge our earnest advocacy of measures and treatment that will reflect the gratitude of a sympathetic and appreciative people.

We heartily endorse the action of the general assembly in providing for a committee to conduct a survey of the various departments, boards, commissions and offices of the state government with a view of consolidation and elimination in the interest of efficiency and economy.

Retrenchment Urged

Retrenchment, abolition of extravagance and a maximum of service at a minimum of expense must be the aim and achievement of those charged with the administration of state affairs.

We commend the joint legislative committee on administrative reorganization for its efforts to secure for our state the benefits that have resulted from reorganization in other states—efforts which already promise to save hundreds of dollars for the tax payers of Ohio.

We commend present Republican state officials for their capable and economical administration of their offices.

Declare For Economical Administration

We declare for an economical and business administration, state, county and municipal. We demand efficiency in administration, and a budget system that will balance outgo with income; that fixes responsibility and effectuates true business principle in administration of public funds.

We denounce the Democratic administration that creates jobs for patronage purposes, and while wasting public funds, deceives with tales of petty economies.

We recognize the importance of the agricultural interests of our state. The farmer must have a fair reward for

BELGRADE, June 29.—A report that the Albanian city of Avlona, has been captured from the Italians by Albanian insurgents, has been received by the newspaper Pravo in a dispatch from Uskub, Southern Serbia, the report adding that the entire Italian garrison was taken with the town.

Restore Party Government, Harding's Plea

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30.—The Republican presidential campaign will be based "on an appeal to restore party government as a constitutional substitute for personal government," Senator Harding, the party presidential candidate, announced today after a conference with Calvin Coolidge, his running mate, and National Chairman Will H. Hays.

At the same time Governor Coolidge in a formal statement declared that there must be "a return of public opinion toward a self control by the people, toward a great and over-mastering desire to observe the law."

Harding's Statement

Senator Harding's statement said: "Governor Coolidge breakfasted with me this morning and we have agreed that we will base the campaign on an appeal to restore party government as a constitutional substitute for personal government.

"The governor and I have each served as lieutenant governor in our states and we both have learned from experience how possible it is for a second official in a state to be a helpful part in the party administration. I think the vice president should be more than a mere substitute in waiting. In reestablishing coordination between the executive office and the senate, the vice president can and ought to play a big part, and I have been telling Governor Coolidge how much I wish him to be not only a participant in the campaign, but how much I wish him to be a helpful part of a Republican administra-

Two Piece Suit Folks Hug Hotels Durin' the Evenin'

—BY ARE MARTIN—

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30—The Democratic National Convention is in full swing. There's much suffering amongst th' delegates on account o' th' cold nights an' th' two-piece suit Democrats are huggin' th' hotels in th' evenin's. Ther seems t' be considerable fear amongst th' more conservative Democrats that th' convention 'll be tempted t' go too far on th' labor question. "My experience in politics has been that th' labor vote hain't worth monkeyin' with," said a big, prosperous lookin' war contract Democrat within my hearin' last night. "Four years ago when it looked like Wilson's attitude on th' Adamson law would defeat him, I rode downtown early in th' mornin' o' th' election with a street car load o' railroad machinists an' only two out o' thirty one had even registered an' they were Hughes' buttons. We might jest as well eater t' a cigar store crowd as th' labor bunch. This spring I had seven workin' men buildin' a garage fer me. Th' boss was a Socialist, th' carpenters wuz Republicans, three o' th' cement workers wuz unnaturalized, an' th' bod carrier was undecided. Th' meanest Republican I ever talked to spaded my garden this spring. Th' only thing labor is interested in so fer as I kin see it more money an' less work, an' it knows it kin walk out an' git what it wants no matter what party is in power. Mark my word, th' average workin' man 'll be busy workin' on his car when th' votin' 's goin' on next November. Samuel G. Blythe, th' famous correspondent is here. He nominated Gov'nor Sproul right up t' th' last minute at Chicago, but has made no public statement on th' situation here since reachin' th' Pacific slope. Delegates are gettin' restless t' git away an' see somethin'. Hotel an' resturint prices are higher here, but ever buddy has been stung so much at home that they don't think nothing o' breakin' a one. I don't believe I've seen a complete set o' whiskers since I've been here. O' course ther's mustaches an' goatees, an' sidebums, but I hain't seen any full page splatters, an' only four plug hats in th' forgnouns. Ex-Senator James Hamilton Lewis, an' eight suits o' clothes, o' Chicago, are here. He has a full, fine, reddish beard, but it's so trimmed an' restrained that it kin hardly be classed as whiskers in th' reg'lar acceptance o' th' term. Ex-Senator Lewis is a polished toastmaster, an' would make a graceful wil-

M'ADOO NOT FORMALLY TO BE PLACED IN NOMINAT'N

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30—Definite and final instructions came from the east early today that William G. McAdoo's name was not formally to be placed before the Democratic national convention. Burris Jenkins, of Kansas City, who was prepared to make a nominating speech for McAdoo, revised his plans again and decided to accede to the wishes of the McAdoo managers.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Stripped for action, the Democratic national convention today swung into the business of selecting a presidential nominee.

Meeting an hour earlier than usual, and working under an order of business which permitted the presentation of candidates before the party platform has been adopted, the convention entered upon the day of demonstration and oratory which marks the placing of candidates in formal nomination.

With all nominating addresses restricted to 20 minutes and seconding speeches to five and limited to not more than three in number to a candidate, each of the possibilities had not more than 35 minutes for full description of his merits and capacity for the nation's highest gift. Working under that high-geared program it was within the range of possibilities that the nominating speeches, would

Well the safe and sane Fourth seems to be gettin' in some early licks. The youngsters are always able to get hold o' noise makers at least a week before the official date and are able to keep it up for a week after. Yep, there's nothin' like keepin' up a good thing. Here's for tomorrow:

OHIO—Probably local thunder showers in south and fair weather in north portion tonight and Thursday; slightly cooler in extreme north portion tonight.

KENTUCKY—Cloudy tonight and Thursday. Probably local thunderstorms.

The extremes in local temperature today were: High, 90; low, 75.

The young lady across the way says Bonds of the first issue are quoted higher than those of the fourth, for instance, and she supposes it is because lots of people want to get their money back sooner.

STEEL CONFERENCE CONTINUED

Acting upon a telegram, received Wednesday morning, by William Edwards, president of Peerless Lodge, Amalgamated Association of Sheet and Tin Metal Workers of America, from President M. W. Tighe, the sheet and tin metal workers employed at the Whitaker Glessner Co. will continue to work as formerly, pending the outcome of the conference committee now in session at Columbus, at which a satisfactory working scale will be agreed upon it is expected.

President Edwards received the following telegram:

"Columbus, Ohio, June 30—10 a. m.—Conference committee still negotiating. Continue work in all departments until further notice. Signed M. W. Tighe, President. Fred K. Rightly, secretary."

The opinion seems to prevail that everything will be satisfactorily arranged and that nothing will occur to interrupt work at the steel plants, as is well known a new scale for sheet and tin workers was to have become effective on July 1, and it may be that by that time everything will have been satisfactorily worked out. That is the feeling that is prevalent locally. According to President Edwards there will be no interruption of work at the Whitaker Glessner Co's local plant, orders having been issued by him that all departments continue to work until further advised.

SAFETY FIRST IS PARAMOUNT QUESTION OF THE DAY, SAYS SPEAKER AT LUNCHEON

"Awaken to your responsibility and shoulder it and the reward will be yours," said C. H. McClain safety first expert of the Procter and Gamble company, Cincinnati Wednesday noon when he addressed a large number of Chamber of Commerce members at the weekly luncheon of the C. of C. He was given the subject of Safety First as this is Safety Week. Besides the address by Mr. McClain a reel of moving pictures was shown bringing before the eyes and minds of those present common causes of accidents and how they could be prevented.

Mr. McClain who has had several years experience in industrial safety first work made a splendid talk on causes and prevention of accidents. In part he said: "I notice here that you have as many accidents in proportion as Chicago or New York. You can no longer pass this great question of accident prevention. It is one of the paramount questions of the day and a great community feature which demands the careful attention of all." Mr. McClain then spoke of the large card he had before him which contained nearly two hundred headlines cut from the Daily Times the headlines being cut from items relating to accidents within the last 10 days. Continuing his remarks he said: "Over three fourths of all the accidents can be prevented. There are nearly 80,000 people killed every year and the average number injured each year runs close to 14,000,000. Somebody's carelessness is the cause of over three-fourths of all these accidents. Careless parents are most always to blame for so many accidents to children. The solution of the problem is education. We become careful only through careful habits. It is an easy matter to take a boy or girl and train them in the Safety First habit but the hardest work is to get the older people to swing into line. You should see to it that traffic laws are enforced, spread Safety First propaganda and put Safety First in your schools as a study. Take up the work and you will reap the reward but let the matter pass by and you will be the one to pay."

After Mr. McClain's address a reel of Safety First moving pictures was shown. This was the last weekly forum luncheon until fall. The Safety Week Committee in charge of the different projects boosting Safety Week is composed of Homer Selby, Hugh H. Higgins and Frank Bowe.

COX LAUDED AS MAN OF THE HOUR BY JUDGE JOHNSON IN HIS NOMINATING SPEECH

SAN FRANCISCO.—The following is the text of the address by Judge James G. Johnson of Springfield, Ohio, placing in nomination for President of the Democratic National Convention the name of Governor James M. Cox of Ohio:

I speak for a mighty State.

The election this year will fix the status of America for a generation. Not only will it decide whether we shall take our rightful place at the very head of the nations in a united effort for civilization, or shall lapse into sullen ostracism in the face of opportunities for service to humanity which no people ever had; but will also decide whether the domestic progress and vast productive energies of this continent shall be turned back into reactionary channels after a period of splendid achievement in Democratic administration.

Before November comes, the people of every state will be profoundly touched with the vast importance of this issue, but in no state more deeply than in Ohio.

We, in Ohio, feel that we are a cosmopolitan people in a large and unusual sense. Gathered in its citizenship are strains of blood from every race and every clime. We feel the heart-beats, the triumphs and the sufferings of all the world.

Ohio A Pioneer State

Ohio was the first state that was admitted to the Union from the great Northwest Territory which was presented as a free gift to the nation by the splendid generosity of Virginia under the lead of her immortal son, Thomas Jefferson.

In the early days, the Cavaliers of the South, the Puritans of New England, the Holland Dutch of New York, the Pennsylvania Germans and the Maryland Irish, all sent pioneers to Ohio.

These, with the sturdy immigrants from the old country, met upon our soil, mingled their blood and began the construction of a great commonwealth. All stood equal, and under the inspiration of the Revolution and benign influences of nature they began in Ohio and extended throughout the Northwest an era of progress and prosperity not seen before among men.

When this country was forced into the great world war, our people, in common with their fellow countrymen in all of the state, were thrilled by the call of the great man who sits in the seat of Washington and Lincoln, and who with superb spirit and matchless phrase interpreted the highest aspirations and the invincible purposes of the free peoples of the earth. If envy, hatred and passion shall deprive him of his just recognition now, and deprive his country and humanity of the benefits of his vast service in their behalf, succeeding generations will pay increasing devotion to his honor. The mighty appeal he made to the resistless forces of civilization will place him among the colossal figures in the history of mankind.

As we enter the great contest now impending, our opponents fan every flame of discontent. They pool every discordant element. In order to carry the election, unmindful and regardless of the effect on the welfare of the Republic, and on the orderly processes of society, they arouse filter prejudice and set in motion forces which it is easy to see may become absolutely uncontrollable. They do not hesitate to cast a cloud on the glory won for our country by the millions of our boys who grandly carried the flag to the battle fields of Europe and with unconquerable spirit placed it at the very front of the columns of civilization.

All the world felt that Democracy, freedom and friendship had a new meaning in the earth.

Must Support Proud Position Now

The American people must now decide whether that proud position which our soldiers and our people won shall be abandoned or whether we shall show ourselves worthy of the inheritance we have enjoyed.

The Democratic party needs a candidate who holds in his heart the memory of the glorious record of the incomparable American boy who looks forward with courage and capacity to grasp the opportunities and to meet the difficulties and dangers yet to come. He must know the beginnings and the lessons for the Republic. He must know its spirit; and the spirit of the wise men who founded it; who made its declaration and its constitution and sent it forth on its grand mission. He must know that universal education is the cornerstone of the republic and that the best guarantee of its continuance is that it rests in the intelligent affections of the people; that Americanization is not an idle ceremony, that it is not a thing to be gained in a day, or a year, but that it is the result of the slow processes of education and of the influence of association and contact with those who have enjoyed and appreciate what enlightened liberty is. He must know that America cannot hold herself away from the rest of the world, that science and invention and genius have removed all barriers on land and sea and have brought together all the races whether they will or not. He must realize that the huge debt imposed upon all the nations by the bloody struggle make it imperative that the American president shall be a man of great business and executive capacity; that this debt can only be paid by wealth produced in the factories and mines and on the farms of the country, and that there must be the devoted, united and harmonious work of every citizen and every worker to accomplish the mighty task. The taxes must be intelligently laid to the end that this capital and this labor may be, as far as possible, unfettered.

Has All Necessary Qualities

The great state, of which I have spoken, present a man who has these qualities in full and rounded measure. His strength is not the passing fancy of a mere lucky turn on the political board. It is the solid strength and power that is slowly fixed in the judgment of the people after actual performance and service. His friends do not generalize, they specify. For eight years he has been under the searchlight in our state. In each of the years new problems were met, new difficulties encountered, new demands made upon his tireless industry and upon the resources of his leadership and statesmanship. He has constantly grown with the severity of the test. At every crisis and at every new trial, he has developed a splendid reserve force and capacity. On the day he was first nominated governor, a new constitution went into effect. It made substantial changes in our fundamental law, contained positive mandates to the legislature and conferred to carry out far-reaching reforms in our governmental system and in the industrial relations of the people. He did not falter in the presence of his heavy task. The amount of work he did was prodigious. After patient effort and study, there were enacted under his leadership nearly fifty measures in obedience to the people's command. They include a complete reorganization and improvement of our school system and of our tax system. A workmen's compensation law was adopted which has become a model for humanitarian and beneficent legislation. It was developed on scientific principles, after complete and thorough investigation of former industrial conditions. Its results have justified its enactment and removed opposition to it.

A ballot system was adopted which applied business principles to the people's needs. In the absence of the democratic state ticket on our ballot and sources to be employed a masterly series in the management of the finances and fiscal institutions of the government.

He knows the value of opposition. His service and earnest work in congress on its great committee on appropriations gave him a view of the practical operation of government and of its countless activities. He saw the value and need of co-operation and his natural aptness to work with others was constantly felt by his colleagues. No man, friend or foe, has ever said that he sat on the fence or dodged in times of dispute between conflicting interests.

Admire His Law Enforcement

All saw and admired the resolute stand he took for the impartial enforcement of the law. He demanded of every subordinate executive officer in every county and in every municipality the same unquestioning observance of equal and exact justice. His spirit was so high and his sense of fairness so even and manifest that no soldier was ever needed to march between capital and labor.

Recognizing the right of every man to his opinion on every proposed public measure, after the discussion was over and the judgment of the people had been written into the law of the state, he has, with the same cool and deliberate hand, enforced that law. No sincere, well-informed citizen of Ohio has denied that proposition. This has been, and will be, his position to the end.

When our country entered the war, men and women of every state were lifted out of the ordinary channels. The only rivalry was in the glorious rivalry of service. The patriotic fervor shown by men of all parties, of every origin and of every creed, was a magnificent exhibition of the militant strength of a great composite people. The Democratic Federal Reserve system made it possible to mobilize quickly and effectively the inexhaustible resources of a continent, and Ohio, proud of the work that was being done by every other state, joined in the effort to demonstrate that America should meet the supreme test.

Our governor, with invincible enthusiasm and untiring energy, stepped to his rightful place as the leader in organizing our contribution to the man-power of the army, the great productive energies of our mines, our factories and our farms. Backed by the best men and best women, without regard to party, he disclosed a capacity for leadership in that sacred cause which placed him at the very front among the great American war governors.

Inspires Courage

Courageous himself, he inspired the timid with courage. In every country and in all of the great centers of industry his voice was heard arousing and directing the patriotism of the citizens, and in every camp he threw his full vigor in providing for the welfare and encouragement of the boys upon whom our future was to depend. If he was masterful and efficient in civil administration, he was superb as the leader of the people in preparing for and prosecuting war.

The opposites of his campaign are not from the small and voluntary contributions of those who know him best. He is bound by no express or implied obligations to any class of interest.

For half a century Ohio was normally Republican, but three times this man has been elected governor of the Buckeye State. The last time he was the only man on the Democratic ticket who was elected, and he is stronger now. I doubt if there are many instances in which a chief executive has made the sure and steady advance in the confidence and esteem and ripened judgment of his fellow-citizens of all classes that this man has made in Ohio. His real genius for executive duty and his record of accomplishment has increased his popularity and strength far beyond the power of our opponents to overcome, however huge the campaign fund may be.

With him as your candidate, Ohio is Democratic, and with Ohio Democratic victory is sure.

Every four years Americans drink anew at the fountains of freedom and enthusiasm. It is hard to overstate the enormous educational value of a presidential election to our people. The youth of the land receives instruction that fixes its faith in the republic upon sure foundations, and it receives widespread education on public questions. It is one of the finest things in our national life. To every lover of freedom it is inspiring.

What a grand thing it is to witness the scenes of the National Convention of the two great parties of our country. In no other country, since men began to consult together, could such a thing be seen as we see every four years. But not in the swelling scenes of these conventions is the final choice to be made. In the quiet times between and in the elections, in the summer and autumn, the records of the parties and the candidates will pass in review before the American people, in the homes, in the hamlets, in the great centers of commerce and industry, before the humblest and the highest, and when the golden glories of autumn have come, the nation's judgment of the people will be expressed.

Meets Needs of the Hour

They know enough to know that the road to the re-establishment of durable peace and progress is arduous. They know that the cooperative spirit that was placed by the Creator in every race, in every time, will reassert itself and that in the new day that will come out of the suffering and lessons of the great struggle through which we have just passed, and the new social fabric that has been woven by an unseen, omnipotent power, America must take its proper place, that while maintaining unimpaired and unbroken the grand institutions of freedom prepared for us by the forefathers, these institutions must be used as the forefathers themselves declared, for the benefit of humanity.

I confident that this discriminating, by a great, free and intelligent people will disclose that our governor is a splendid example of what an American can do, that he meets the needs of the hour. The Democracy of Ohio, with entire unanimity brings to the Democracy of the nation this great radical and economical leader and statesman.

Ohio nominates for president of this country, James M. Cox.

ROBERT M'CORKLE PRESIDENT OF THE MASONIC JUNIOR LEAGUE

Robert McCorkel, one of the most popular young men in the city, will guide the Masonic Junior Bowling league through the season of 1920-21. This was decided at the annual meeting of the league held at the Temple last evening, at the conclusion of a bountiful chicken dinner served by the good women of the First Presbyterian church and to which every member of the league present did ample justice. Mr. McCorkle was named president to succeed James Yeley, who guided the league so skillfully through its first season and who is one of the most enthusiastic players in the league.

The Wonders, captained by William Erickson won the championship and were presented with a very artistic sweater of blue flannel, with white lettering. The pennant will be framed and presented to the Athletic Association, under whose control the Junior League will play henceforth. The individual members of the Wonders were presented with pearl handle pocket knives of a very costly nature, while Bryson West was given a safety razor for making the single high score of 222. To show their appreciation of the work of Eddie Preisler, custodian of the Play House alleys, who kept records standing right up to the handle, they presented him with a fine leather belt.

The league decided to join the Masonic Athletic Association in a body, and a player to participate in the league next season will have to pay the initiation dues of $1.00 into the treasury of the Athletic Association. This many of the players did last evening. It was also decided that no player would be eligible to any individual prizes unless he participated in at least 66 2-3 per cent of his games.

In all, more than thirty members were present and enthusiasm ran high. The league was formed primarily to take care of the overflow in the Major Masonic League, and while it operated under its own corps of officers it received the advice of the directors of the older organization. Now that it has taken itself from under the wings of its parents, it will go it alone, or operate under the direction of the Athletic Association. The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Robert McColkle, Vice president, Ben Cross, secretary Vernon Smith, treasurer Henry Ruggles; directors, Harry Flowers, Walter Bierley and Bryson West.

The New York Tribune Says

"We kick at prices but so strong is the pull of vanity and habit that we are not willing to live simply for even a week. The apparel still doth proclaim the man, or at least the degree of his material success, and we want things often for no better reason than that our neighbor can't get them. Never were the shops more crowded than in this year of great grumbling."

Which merely confirms our oft expressed belief that folks will buy the best so long as employment at high pay is obtainable.

There CAN BE no panic nor hard times until general unemployment once again stalks gauntly through our lands as it did 27 years ago—in 1893—until the Bread lines and the Free Soup Houses reappear.

INJURIES FATAL TO SWITCHMAN

William Murphy, aged 24 years, switchman, who was caught between two cars and badly crushed while at work in the N. & W. yards at East Portsmouth Monday night, succumbed to his injuries shortly after 8 o'clock Tuesday night in Hempstead hospital, where he was taken shortly after the accident.

Murphy stepped between the cars to make what is known as a "chain coupling" and was hurt internally about the chest when he was caught between the car ends. He was unconscious when picked up by fellow trainmen and was hurried to the hospital where surgeons made heroic efforts to save his life, but in vain.

Murphy is survived by a sister, Mrs. Hugh Nichols, 1118 Gallia street, who was at his bedside when the end came, besides his father and another sister, who reside in West Virginia. They have been notified and are expected to arrive here today to attend the funeral which will probably be held Thursday. Burial will be made at Ironton.

Perfection's Price In Tire Building

A tire-maker's first problem is to decide how much he can give for the money. This, and every other question in tire building, depends upon policies.

A super-tire, such as The Brunswick, can be made only by a concern which knows well and appreciates that there is nothing exclusive in the tire industry except high standards.

Since 1845 the House of Brunswick has held first place in every line it entered. Brunswick Tires, as more and more motorists come to know them, will certainly be awarded that coveted place held only by the superfine.

Motorists who buy one Brunswick usually adopt it for complete equipment. Yet this is not strange, since the first one so completely proves its superiority.

If the name of Brunswick certifies to you, as to most men, an extraordinary tire, at no higher price, would it not be good business to test one or two Brunswick Tires?

STORM RAGES OVER ISSUES IN THE COMMITTEE

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 30—Open warfare over prohibition, the Irish question and other troublesome issues of the Democratic platform began yesterday in a storm-swept committee hearing, while in private the leaders continued their negotiations for a settlement to keep hostilities from spreading to the floor of the convention itself.

A momentary defeat was administered the Bryan dry leaders in the full platform committee when a parliamentary battle for position on the speaker's list was decided in favor of the wets by a vote of 27 to 25.

The general inclination, however, was to discount the significance of the vote, which was taken to decide which side should speak first.

In the skirmish both west and drys argued that their opponents were trying to re-open the prohibition issue and therefore should present their case first. When the drys were forced to go ahead, Mr. Bryan took charge of the time allotted to that side, but divided all of it among other speakers representing the Anti-Saloon League, church associations and other prohibition organizations.

For the wets, W. Bourke Cochran, of New York, was the chief spokesman during a debate in which Mr. Bryan was called upon to explain his connections with the Anti-Saloon League. He denied that he ever had received compensation from the league, except for "four months last year, for certain public speeches."

Irish Issue Starts Furore

The Irish issue was argued in such militant fashion that the crowded committee room was in almost constant uproar. Opponents of the proposal for recognition of the Irish republic were kept under a hail of heckling and derision from Irish sympathizers, and once or twice were called short and ugly words while the committee chairman pounded, unheeded, with his gavel and sergeants-at-arms tussled with the crowd in an ineffectual effort to keep order.

The argument for the Irish recognition plank was led by Frank P. Walsh and the opposition was handled by Damarest Lloyd, of Boston, president of the Loyal Coalition.

Gompers Before Committee

Labor's platform was presented to the committee by Samuel Gompers, who declared the Republican party had written reaction on its banners, and that the labor vote must find some avenue for expression of its desires.

The League of Nations, another subject threatening a convention floor fight, was not mentioned during the day's hearings, but there were many suggestions on almost every other political subject, prolonging the committee's deliberations into the evening.

Approval of cooperative marketing by farmers also was urged by Dr. W. H. Walker, president of the California farm bureau of the federation. He also disapproved of government ownership or operation of railroads.

Resolutions for compensating ex-service men, presented by Richard A. Jones, of the Washington delegation, provide for "selective or optional compensation," and condemned the "hypocritical conduct of the Republican congress" on the bonus bill.

Jap Plank Up

A plank to deal with Japanese immigration and land ownership was submitted by V. S. McClatchey, of Sacramento. It would "favor laws providing for the exclusion of non-assimilable peoples" and forbidding those already here ownership and control of the soil.

Mr. McClatchey had calculated, he told the committee, that at the present rate of increase there would be 100,000,000 Japanese in the country at the end of forty years.

The plank was supported by Senator Phelan, of California.

A Philippine independence plank was asked by J. P. Melencio, representing the Filipino mission, and by Resident Commissioner Rafferty. The contention of the Filipinos had demonstrated their capacity for immediate independence. The appeals of Mr. Melencio brought the convention and spectators to their feet in cheers, the first incident of the kind during the hearings.

Mrs. William C. Keet, of California, representing the women's international league for peace and freedom, urged a program to forward world peace.

The plank for inland waterway development was presented by Edward F. Colton, national committeeman for Missouri, and James E. Smith, of St. Louis, president of the Inland Waterway Association.

Skin Eruptions Cause Constant Torture

Disease Germs Must Be Eliminated From the Blood.

When your skin disease reaches its worst stage and the fiery burning causes you to scratch and scratch in an effort to obtain relief, there is many a sleepless night in store for you.

It is nothing more than folly to expect to be cured by the use of local treatment, such as ointments, salves, lotions, etc. Such remedies may afford some temporary relief, but you want more than relief; you want a remedy that will rid you forever of the torturing disorder.

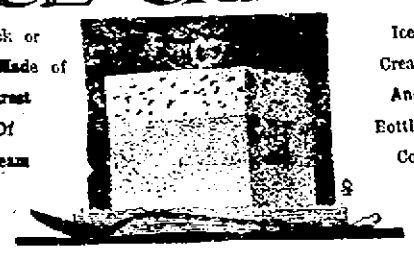

Eczema, tetter, boils, pimples, sores, irritations and scalp eruptions, as well as all other forms of skin diseases, come from a disordered condition of the blood. They must be cured through the blood, and this explains why local treatment fails so absolutely.

The radical and rational treatment is to take a thorough course of S. S. S., the purely vegetable blood remedy, which thoroughly cleanses the blood of every particle of impurity. A few bottles of S. S. S. will rout out the disease germs from your blood, your complexion will begin to clear up and you will soon be rid of the disease as thousands of others have.

Get a bottle at the drug-store today, write to our local physician, who will gladly give you full medical advice without charge. Address Medical Director, 612 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

COX DIVORCE TALK ACTS AS BOOMERANG ON FOE

COLUMBUS, O., June 30—A special dispatch to the Ohio State Journal from San Francisco last night says in part:

"McAdoo workers today joined the Palmer forces in using the divorce argument against Gov. Cox.

"There is an unmistakable resentment among many delegates against the injection of the Cox divorce talk. The governor's management contends that it has acted as a boomerang against those who have been floating it.

"The Cox forces seemed entirely satisfied with the situation today. New converts to the cause of the Buckeye governor were claimed. It was said the Maryland delegation was his.

"Just when some of the wets were reported to be weakening in their enthusiasm for Cox, the Anti-Saloon League gave them new faith in the form of a statement attributing to the governor nearly everything the Ohio Home Rule Association has adopted in years."

Tattoo Marks.

Although tattoo marks are generally asserted to be indelible if produced by the insertion of carbonaceous matter, it is said they will disappear if first well rubbed with a salve of pure acetic acid and lard, then with a solution of potash, and finally with hydrochloric acid. It would be advisable to consult a skin specialist.

Have You A Hoover, Or Are You Just Wishing For One?

Every home that has electricity ought to have a Hoover electric cleaner. It saves drudgery for the one who has the cleaning to do, and for this reason we don't blame every woman for wanting a Hoover. Some folks have told us that you could tell how much a man loves his wife by noting whether they have a Hoover electric cleaner in the home. Of course we wouldn't go so far as to say that but we will say that a man is certainly thoughtful of his wife when he is willing to skimp a little here and there, if need be, so the wife might have a Hoover cleaner to lighten her work.

Now what we wanted to say was this. We have quite a number of Hoover cleaners in stock and we would be glad of an opportunity to bring one of them to your home and leave it for a few days and let you see just how it works. You will be under no obligations to buy, but we would like to have you try it. Just phone us Thursday morning and we will have a machine at your home by Thursday afternoon.

A woman told us the other day that our Hoover man had stopped just next door to her home with a Hoover and she had a big notion to ask him to come in her house and try a Hoover on her front room rug but she hated to ask him. Of course we told the lady that our Hoover man would only have been too glad to demonstrated the machine to her in her own home and that too without any obligations. Now if you feel like this woman, just you phone and we'll have that Hoover man come and clean your rug or let you clean it, it's a mighty small job for a Hoover.

Tobacco Hardens the Arteries, Overtaxes the Heart and Shortens Life

Says Dr. Connor, Who Suggests a Simple Test to Find If It Is Hurting You. Can You Stand It?

New York—Dr. Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins hospital, says: Hundreds of thousands of men who smoke and chew and who believe themselves healthy are suffering from progressive organic ailments. They would never have been afflicted had it not been for the use of tobacco and most of them would soon be well if they would only stop the use of tobacco.

The best known habit forming principal of tobacco is nicotine, but the most deadly and demoralizing is furfural. Both are deadly poison, which, when absorbed by the system slowly, but surely, affect the nerves, membranes, tissues, vital organs and vitality of the body.

The harmful effect of tobacco varies and depends on circumstances and the individual. In some it causes general debility, others catarrh of the throat, indigestion, constipation, extreme nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of memory, lack of will power, cowardice and fear, mental confusion, etc.; in others it causes heart disease, bronchial troubles, hardening of the arteries, palpitation of the heart, tuberculosis, blindness, cancer and the common affliction known as tobacco heart.

If you use tobacco in any form you may detect its harmful effects by making the following simple test: Read aloud a full page from a book. If your voice becomes muffled, hoarse and indistinct and you must frequently clear your throat, the chances are that your throat is affected by catarrh and it may be the beginning of very serious catarrhal trouble. Next, in the morning, before taking your usual smoke, walk up three flights of stairs at a rapid pace, then stop. If you find that you are out of breath, your heart beat is forced, trembling or irregular, you may be the victim of a functional or organic heart trouble. If you feel that you must smoke or chew to quiet your nerves, you are a slave to the tobacco habit and are slowly poisoning yourself with the insidious deadly drugs nicotine and furfural. In either case, you have just two alternatives—keep on with your self-poisoning process regardless of the danger, and suffer the consequences, or rid yourself of the habit and escape the dangers.

You can overcome the craving and stop the tobacco habit in a very short time by using the following inexpensive formula: Go to any drug store and ask for Nicotol. Take one tablet after each meal and in a comparatively short time you will have no desire for tobacco. The craving will have left you. With the nicotine poison free out of your system your general health will quickly improve.

Note: When asked about Nicotol, one of our leading druggists said: Nicotol is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit. It is way ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the money to every dissatisfied customer and we would not permit the use of our name unless the remedy possessed unusual merit." Nicotol is sold in this city by all up-to-date druggists including Flood & Blake.

MISS DOLLY WISE

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—Will you please tell me of a good remedy to remove moles from one's face, and are moles the beginning of cancers?

TRE-BEANS.

Moles are harmless if left strictly alone. They may turn into a cancer if you "monkey" with them. They are supposed to be beauty spots, so why try to ged rid of them.

Dear Dolly—Can you tell me why the city folks insist on parking their automobiles in front of the few hitching posts that are left for horses. Horses won't stand without being tied and most of the automobiles that I have seen will. Why aren't they more considerate of their country cousins?

COUNTRY READER.

It is thoughtlessness on the part of the auto owners. I am sure they would not blockade a hitching post if they thought someone wanted to tie their nag to it.

Dear Dolly—Will you please tell me where I can get "America Forever" sheet music for piano.

THANKS.

You might have one of the music dealers order it for you.

Dear Dolly Wise—I will write to you, I am a girl of 17 years of age and I am going to ask you if it would be right for me to go with fellows, and I want to ask you if it would be all right for me to attend school another year and go with a fellow. I am going with a fellow of 19 years of age and would like to know if I go with him.

VILLAGE READER.

I would go to school another year or two if I were you. It is all right to go with the boy occasionally, if your parents don't mind, but I wouldn't consider him a "steady" or sweetheart.

Dear Doly—I have been talking to a fine boy at Camp Sherman but he does not want to come to my house to see me because my folks don't like him. They never say anything in front of me, but they have told my friends they don't like him, so please advise me.

OLD PAL.

Since your folks do not object to your going with him, I would insist that he come to the house to see me. Don't meet him out on the street corners.

Dear Doly—I saw a graphophone advertised in the want column of the Times some time ago but I got the flu shortly afterwards and did not get to buy it and was wondering if it was still for sale. I have a housefull of kids and thought I would get a cheap one until they got tired of it and then get a good one. Do you suppose that one has been sold?

KENTUCKY READER.

Sure it was sold before the ink was dry on the paper. However there are a dozen or more firms in the city that sell talking machines and you can get them at almost any price you want to pay. Why don't you come over and listen to some of them.

Dear Dolly—How can I find out if a boy cares for me. Also how can I find out how old he is, and how can I get my father to let me go with him, and also can I marry him if he asks me?, I am 17.

GOOD BYE.

If the boy wants to go with you it's a pretty good sign that he likes you. If he won't tell you his age, I imagine his friends or neighbors could tell you even to the day and the hour. Most people forget their own ages while trying to keep track of others. You can't get married until you are past 18. I hope your father keeps tab on your movements, as you are liable to get into mischief.

A picnic is planned for the summer months, the place to be announced later. The members of this congenial club are Mesdames Herbert Boring, John Hurt, B. F. Stewart, E. G. Akers, Will Gray, George Mooney, W. E. Gemmill, John Thomas, Joe Ross, W. A. Stewart, W. E. Mann, W. D. Goodman, A. F. Beckett, Fred Reinhart and E. B. Ringwald; Misses Ada and Kate Vigus and Laura Long.

The marriage of Miss Hannah Wilson Luce, of Hanging Rock, and Mr. Joseph C. Updegraff of Portsmouth was solemnized at 7 o'clock last evening by Rev. Chas. W. Clark, pastor of the Central Christian church, Ironton, the event taking place in the church parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Updegraff will make their home in this city, where the groom is employed.

Announcement was made Tuesday of the marriage of Cora Wells, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Wells, of Greenup, Ky., to Mr. Linzie Gillian, of New Boston. The marriage took place Saturday at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Ella Bush, of High street. Rev. P. C. Wolfe, pastor of Manly M. E. church, officiated.

The Bethany Class of the Franklin Avenue church will meet Thursday, July 1, at the home of Mrs. Frank L. Marling, Sunnyside. Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, Rev. Samuel Lindenmeyer of the First Evangelical church conducted another pretty June wedding when Miss Clara Henrietta Marshall became the bride of Mr. Clarence Fisher at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Marshall, 1620 Eleventh street. The rooms were artistically decorated in daisies for the happy event, the impressive ceremony taking place in front of a profusion of these pretty flowers, interminglet with green potted plants.

The attendants were Miss Anna Pulzek and Mr. John Hester, close friends of the couple.

The maid of honor wore a dainty costume of white georgette with large lavender hat, and carried pink rosebuds. The bride was a picture of loveliness in a creation of white georgette over satin with trimmings of the same. Her veil hung gracefully from a coronet band and fell around her shower bouquet of bride's roses and smilax.

The witnesses to the beautiful service were twenty-five relatives and friends, who were served with dainty refreshments of ices and cake later in the evening.

The happy couple left Wednesday morning on a wedding trip to Detroit, the travelling suit of the bride being dark blue serge, with stylish black hat and accessories to harmonize. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Fisher will reside with the bride's parents at 1620 Eleventh street.

The bride is an attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Marshall.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher of Fire Brick, Ky., and is a machinist at the Whitaker-Glessner Company's plant. He has made many friends since coming to this city, where he has resided for the past few years.

"PERFORMANCE COUNTS"

McAdoo Has Kept His Hands Entirely Off the Convention

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1920 by the Portsmouth Times)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29—The man who is evidently most desired by the body of delegates to take the presidential nomination has kept his hands entirely off the convention and has refused to permit his closest friends even to go through the brief formalities which would put him alongside active candidates.

Of course there will be skeptics who will always doubt not merely the sincerity of the McAdoo men here but who will believe there is some sort of collusion between the man whose name is on every lip here and the active workers for his nomination.

The writer has just made an exhaustive investigation of the McAdoo situation and after several days of inquiry among the men who are most active in advancing the name of Mr. McAdoo for the presidency, these facts stand out conspicuously:

1. McAdoo has not sent a single message to any delegate or leader here encouraging activity in his behalf. Nor has he expressed his views on any question being considered at this convention either of strategy or platform policy. He has literally kept his hands off.

2. Nobody outside of San Francisco is directing the McAdoo forces here. Efforts to draw Daniel C. Roper, McAdoo's chief political adviser, into convention matters have proved futile.

3. No message of any kind, oral or written, has come from the White House, either from Secretary Tumulty or President Wilson, or anyone in Washington in touch directly or indirectly with President Wilson bearing in the remotest degree upon candidates.

4. No cabinet officer here has publicly or privately said anything to indicate that he knew even by implication the wishes of President Wilson with respect to the nomination of candidates.

5. The story that McAdoo declined to be a candidate because of ill-health is not true. It was at first credited by this correspondent and other people here because of the abruptness of the McAdoo announcement and because men high in the councils of the party expressed the belief that McAdoo was suffering from tuberculosis of the throat. The writer is convinced that the story is wholly wrong and that no matter whether McAdoo is nominated or defeated here, any unfair impression which the publication of the rumor may have given should be erased from the minds of readers who like fair play in politics. Persons in a much better position to know than those who originally vouched for the story have assured the writer in unquestioned ways that McAdoo is in good health and that his reasons for declining the nomination had nothing whatsoever to do with physical fitness.

The fact is that Mr. McAdoo couldn't stop his admiring and almost fanatically loyal friends in this convention from trying to nominate him no matter if he issued a dozen statements. They simply recognize him as the best candidate available and are absolutely sure he will serve if drafted. Although Thomas B. Love, national committeeman from Texas issued a statement, saying he was sure McAdoo would accept if named, there is absolutely nothing to show that Love received any such assurance from McAdoo since this convention began and that it was merely a personal opinion of Mr. Love based on Mr. McAdoo's statement at the time of the Georgia primaries several weeks ago to the effect that no man should refuse a presidential nomination.

It all sounds like a game and there will be those who will say it is incredible but the odd part of it is that it is true—that both President Wilson and Mr. McAdoo are not influencing the selection of candidates by the well known underground methods of politics or any other way. If McAdoo is named and it looks as if he will be, it will be because the bulk of the delegates here believe in the Wilson policies and want a candidate who stands for them. It will not be because Mr. McAdoo happened to marry the president's youngest daughter two years after he had been a conspicuous member of the cabinet. It will be because he has shown sympathy with the wage-earner and has administered the big jobs of secretary of the treasury and director general of railroads during the war in a way that two thirds of the delegates believe fits him for the presidency itself.

LEAGUE PLANK AND PROHIBITION PROVE REAL BARRIERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jne 30—The Democratic platform still was in embryonic stage but with prospects of presentation tomorrow to the convention when the platform builders reassembled today.

Although many minor planks had been virtually settled, some in principle only, and others in phraseology as well, most of the troublesome major problems remained unsolved when the sub-committee of nine preparing a tentative draft reconvened today at 9:30 after less than eight hours rest.

With the meeting of the full resolutions committee scheduled for 10 o'clock, the sub-committee arranged to meet with the main body, report partial progress and then resume its labors. By afternoon or night Chairman Glass said, it was hoped to go finally before the full committee where long spirited discussion was in prospect. With a late session tonight, leaders hoped to be able to bring the completed product before the convention tomorrow.

The convention proceedings will not interfere with the platform committee men continuing their work without interruption as the program calls for the delivery of presidential nominating speeches which will consume virtually all of today's session.

Two Issues Big Barriers

The league of nations and prohibition remained the big barriers to agreement. Adjustment of the league question, however, was said to be in a fair way of realization.

Some of the sub-committee were optimistic over prospects of harmony on this fundamental dispute. They had "slept on" administration and other proposed planks stuffed in their pockets when the meeting broke up shortly before 2 o'clock this morning, and it was asserted by influential sub-committee members that the tentative recommendation of league and treaty plank would go to the full committee with virtually substantial agreement. Some of the more hopeful even expressed the view that the threatened fight in the full committee might be averted.

On prohibition the sub-committee remained largely at sea. All suggestions for a "wet" plank which would declare for repeal of the 18th amendment or annullment of the Volstead enforcement law were said to have been virtually thrown over board by tacit consent in the sub-committee, but the fight for a "beer and wine" plank on one hand and some sort of a prohibition declaration on the other was reported still in progress.

Secretary Colby according to reports was said to be favoring a beer and wine provision. The report was accorded significance because of Mr. Colby's recent conference with President Wilson.

No Basis For Settlement

No basis for settlement of the liquor dispute was reported in sight when the sub-committee resumed work today. The drys were said to be insistent upon a prohibition expression, if only to the extent of a plank promising enforcement of the constitution and laws generally and not specifically. The proposal to keep the platform entirely silent on the subject also was still prominently discussed.

Many Planks Virtually Complete

Although Chairman Glass said none of the proposed planks had yet been adopted definitely by the sub-committee, considerable of the uncontroverted sections were reported practically complete. Among these were commendation of many acts of the Wilson administration, the executive bureaus and the records of the Democrats in congress, together with attacks on the Republican legislative course.

So far as the main body of the platform was concerned, the sub-committee found little difficulty in agreeing. The Virginia platform endorsed by President Wilson and brought to San Francisco by Senator Glass was said to have furnished the basis for declarations readily agreed to regarding the general principles of the party.

Senator Glass sat as chairman of the sub-committee, and his advocacy of administration policies was seconded by Secretary Colby. A majority of the other members were regarded as administration supporters, while the chief opponent to the blanket endorsement of the League of Nations desired by the administration, was said to be Senator Walsh, who voted in the senate to take the Republican reservations.

Some of the administration members were said to be for outlining directly in the platform the sort of reservations that should not be considered as nullifying the league covenant, while others wanted merely a blanket declaration for ratification without "destructive" reservations. Those who argued for a bill of particulars, declared one easily could be found in the speeches of the president last fall when he told many western audiences he would not object to reservations restating what he considered already was in the covenant.

Creel To Clarify Language

Sitting with the sub-committee during part of its deliberations was George Creel, head of the public information bureau in Washington during the war. It was said he had been called in to clarify the language for the platform.

The platform committee members considered most likely to start trouble in the full committee were W. J. Bryan, Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts and Henry Cochran, of New York. All of them were left out of the little circle of nine, and all of them had ideas, that they said, the full committee and perhaps the convention itself would have to consider.

Mr. Bryan's principal fight was to be urged for an affirmative dry declaration which he already had drafted, but declined to submit to the sub-committee. A league plank omitting any pledge to ratify the treaty was to be the vehicle of Senator Walsh's fight and a recognition for the Irish republic was to be asked by Mr. Cochran.

That the sub-committee would approve some sort of a positive declaration for the treaty's ratification, was a foregone conclusion. What might be done about Ireland was a more difficult question to answer, but one suggestion was that a plank might be recommended declaring that the Irish problem should be brought before the bar of the League of Nations.

Secretary Colby, who is the administration floor leader in the convention, and who, like Senator Glass, talked platform issues with President Wilson before leaving Washington, was said to have prepared the language of the plank originally put before the sub-committee as an administration suggestion.

all be delivered today, thus clearing the way for the presentation of the platform the first thing Thursday morning, if the resolutions committee can complete it by that time.

Speeches were on the program nominating:

William G. McAdoo.
Attorney General Palmer.
Governor Cox, of Ohio.
Chairman Homer S. Cummings of the National Democratic committee.
Governor Edwards, of New Jersey.
Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska.
James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany.
Senator Owen, of Oklahoma.
John W. Davis, ambassador to Great Britain.

Claim 300 For McAdoo On First

The total McAdoo strength on the first ballot, according to the latest estimate of McAdoo's supporters, will approximate 300 votes. Some say it will not be more than 250, while others insist it will run over 300.

Thus far, the McAdoo men said, they have suffered only one defection. The Maryland delegation, which had been counted in their column, will cast its first votes for John W. Davis, according to information given out early today. The McAdoo supporters said they expect Maryland's votes to return to them after a few ballots.

Both the Cox and Palmer forces viewed with evident satisfaction the scrimmage within the McAdoo forces which was threatening to bring McAdoo to the front at once and make the nomination a three-cornered contest from the beginning. They have insisted all along that they would not permit the McAdoo movement to enjoy the advantage of a reserved seat in the rear to wait for a psychological moment when the convention, unable to throw a two-thirds vote to either of them, would turn to some one else.

Palmer headquarters issued a formal statement that the attorney general's position was "stronger than it ever has been before," announced that his forces were intact, and claimed votes in the convention which would not be shown on the first ballot, because they would be cast for favorite sons, and would come to the Palmer column on the second ballot.

Cox Forces Undisturbed

Cox forces professedly undisturbed by the wet and dry argument which has ranged around his candidate and the outside issues which have been injected into his campaign, were tightening up their lines and were ready to start the balloting.

Despite the promise that the convention would have a "big three" at the outset, dark horse talk was never more persistent than it is at the moment the candidates are about to be placed in nomination. The names of Vice-President Marshall, John W. Davis, ambassador to Great Britain, and Major S. Cummings, chairman of the Democratic national committee, were always heard when dark horses were being discussed and delegates were taking into consideration that each of the "big three" could prevent the others from getting a two-thirds vote.

The Cummings boom grew from a mere demonstration of enthusiasm to formidable proportions in the 24 hours which followed the chairman's opening address and today it had taken full form with Land Mile being circulated among the delegates declaring "a great moment has produced a great man."

Democrats through the country, too, were responding to the sentiment, apparently, for the national chairman's desk was piled with congratulatory telegrams.

Bryan Opposed To Cummings

The growing boom of Cummings, however, brought with it a forecast of opposition from Bryan, who some time ago denounced the national chairman for making a speech at a banquet given for Governor Edwards, an avowed wet candidate. The chairman's friends also were not unmindful that his connection as a lawyer with large business interests would furnish Bryan with an opportunity to use one of his favorite weapons in a convention—a blast at big business.

But whatever the varying strength of the candidates may be, the fact still stands out as the convention gets down to the business of making a choice, that the prohibition and League of Nations issue looming in the back ground, still remain predominating factors and that their disposition is still inseparably linked with the choosing of a candidate.

The decision of the platform sub-committee last night in disregarding a straight out wet plank calling for the repeal of the 18th amendment or the annulment of the Volstead act, reduced the issue to whether there should be a beer and wine plank, or a bone dry declaration as is hoped by William J. Bryan, or ignore the subject entirely.

There are some who feel that the convention would do well to pass the subject entirely as the Republicans did at Chicago, but that conflicts directly with Bryan's announced intention to have "a platform no wet can run on."

Bryan To Fight To Last

Whether Bryan hopes to win or not, he intends to fight in the old-time fashion which has furnished fireworks for many a Democratic convention. He stands by his determination to force every delegate to record his or her vote individually on the issue if a plank which he considers "wet" is to be taken into the platform. Although the White House has kept its hands off the prohibition fight, there are administration leaders on the ground who, while opposing Bryan's bone dry plank on the one hand, are outspoken in their determination that the convention shall do no "pussyfooting," but shall make a clear-cut decision one way or the other.

Chief among these is Postmaster General Burleson. It is understood they are not eager for a roll call on the issue. There has been an informal counting of noses on the prohibition question and even the most ardent wets agree that on a test vote a majority of the convention would be recorded for a dry plank. The more optimistic of the dry leaders say their defeat would be by a majority of 50 votes and some of them estimate the majority as high as 200.

The sub-committee of nine actually framing the platform worked through the night, although without promise of bringing out the document today but with hope of being able to get into position to pursue its work to finality with the full membership of the resolutions committee.

Walsh Proves Snag

The first snag was struck when Senator Walsh, of Montana, who was generally regarded as Bryan's choice for the committee chairmanship, but who withdrew without a contest in favor of Senator Glass, the administration selection, opposed the plan of having the drafting committee go ahead before obtaining the views of the full committee.

It was no secret that Senator Glass brought from Washington virtually a complete draft of such a platform as President Wilson would prefer to see written and that Secretary Colby, another member of the drafting committee, brought with him a League of Nations' plank embodying the ideas, if not actually the language of President Wilson.

The drafting committee started out with a plan to go ahead with the planks brought by Senator Glass and Secretary Colby and build up the platform. Senator Walsh, it was understood, delayed that program by insisting that before the drafting committee could go ahead with its work, it would necessarily have to gather the views of the membership of the entire committee formed in the light of the hearings held publicly. Mr. Walsh contended that the drafting committee was merely an instrument to reduce to paper the views of the full committee and that it could not proceed without learning them. That slowed down the proceedings considerably until today when the individual members could be called in. Meanwhile the sub-committee continues to work in secret on the other phases leading up to the drafting and it was announced with definite finality that nothing was being decided and that therefore it was announced would accept the prepared planks as brought from Washington by Senator Glass and Secretary Colby, or insisting on making a platform of its own.

Before the work of the drafting committee had progressed far, George Creel, who was chairman of President Wilson's committee on public information during the war joined the conferences. Mr. Creel, who came to San Francisco with Secretary Daniels is acting, it was said, as a literary adviser to the drafting committee, to polish up the phases of the platform as Colonel George Harvey did for the Republicans at Chicago.

Mr. Bryan who had declined to present his planks to the sub-committee, held aloof from the deliberations and worked alone preparing for his fight before the full committee membership, and later the convention itself.

his labor. We are in sympathy with the various activities designed to encourage production and to bring about an equitable relationship between producer and consumer. We denounce price fixing by the government which interferes with the natural law of supply and demand. We demand that the state bureau of markets and marketing be placed upon a functioning basis.

Have Labor's Interests At Heart

The interests of labor, the source of wealth, have had, and ever will have, the earnest consideration of the Republican party. We commend the Republican members of the eighty-third general assembly for their constructive protection of the interests of the rail and electric road, mine, building trades and hand and machine workers, and we heartily endorse their action in amending, to make compulsory, the workmen's compensation act. We declare for its effective maintenance and operation. We demand its benefits to be further extended to those incapacitated through occupational disease.

We commend the action of the last general assembly in enacting and passing over the governor's veto, a comprehensive and progressive road law, and we urge a vigorous and persistent policy for the maintenance and repair of all improved highways after construction so that the tax payers' investment in good roads shall not be permitted to suffer waste.

Education is the main factor upon which civilization must depend for its straight and right-minded thinking. Ohio was founded with a strong declaration for schools and means of education. The schools have kept pace with the years. They shall not go back. They must be in keeping with the times. Teachers must have a decent salary and be free from the anxieties of pecuniary stress.

Favor Pay-As-You-Go-Policy

We affirm the underlying principle of the Smith law and declare for rigid limitation upon the creation of public debt. When this safeguard is accomplished fact submissions should not be limited in their scope to pay existing obligations or obligations authorized by law and by a vote of the people.

We declare for the immediate establishment of a pay-as-you-go-policy. Home rule in taxation is approved, in so far as it is possible under our constitution. Authority should be given to political sub-divisions to exceed fixed rates of taxation by a vote of the people.

We condemn the cowardly, unbusiness-like policy of the Democratic party which has consistently refused to lend constructive aid in the solution of this grave question.

We commend the courage, sincerity and record of constructive accomplishment of the Republican general assembly in devising non-oppressive methods of meeting the financial necessities of the state and its political sub-divisions.

In providing a substantial financial basis, upon which the public school system of the state might securely rest, it has unmeasurably raised the standard of citizenship in Ohio.

"Anything To Defeat McAdoo"

Kansas City, not to put his name in nomination before the convention. He has appealed to other friends to intercede with Dr. Jenkins and persuade him not to make any nomination speech. Of course anybody can be voted for whether or not his name is formally presented.

Consider the wisdom of the move to keep Dr. Jenkins from making the nominating speech. There are those who have insisted that it affords a splendid opportunity for oratorical salesmanship, that points in McAdoo's record ought to be recalled to the minds of the delegates and that it was a splendid marshalling of facts and arguments by Governor Willis in his nomination speech which had so much to do with the final selection of Senator Harding at Chicago. But on the other hand, McAdoo is in an entirely different position. He has insisted that he doesn't want the nomination and has telegraphed his friends here to desist in their activity for him. Some delegates have taken all this with a grain of salt for they have noticed a persistence of campaigning for McAdoo. Some of his friends believe that if his name is presented formally along with other candidates he will never be able to erase the impression that he sought the nomination. Mr. Hoover's experience, after he had insisted that he was not a candidate, is being mentioned as a case in point. But back of it all is the feeling that if this convention wants McAdoo it knows where he stands and it knows that he would accept if drafted. He said in a telegram after the Georgia primaries that no true Democrat could refuse the presidential nomination of tendered to him. The sting of the son-in-law argument is still felt. One of the local newspapers presents the delegates daily with headlines about the close call of the boom for the "Crown Prince." Some of the other newspapers insist that the President is trying to get the nomination for McAdoo. Mr. Wilson is literally keeping his hands off but as has been demonstrated again and again in the sessions held thus far, this is a Wilson convention. The delegates are for supporters of the Wilson policies. They are for Palmer and McAdoo because each is a Wilson man. If it were not for Palmer's record against Labor he would win the nomination. Similarly because of McAdoo's record in favor of labor, he holds a commanding position here. His affirmative strength is not measurable. The size of the anti-block of votes said to be at least one-third is also a matter of conjecture. But McAdoo's chances had doubled slightly when word came that he had again upheld the plans of his friends and asked them not to present his name. It is his constant refusal to take the crown which seems to add fascination to the McAdoo movement. The delegates appear to derive stimulus from the unwillingness of McAdoo to lift a finger to advance his own political interests.

lowy vice-president, but th' uncertainty regardin' th' longevity of whoever is nominated fer th' presidency is said by close political observers t' have ruined his chances for th' honor. Ther's much speculation here as t' how much strength McAdoo 'll show in th' early ballotin'. All concede that McAdoo is admirable presidential timber, that he has th' confidence o' both labor an' capital, but his relationship t' th' president an' Charley Chaplin—th' Crown Prince stuff, etc., seems t' preclude th' possibility o' his gittin' th' nomination if th' wiser fixers o' th' convention dominate its deliberations. All condede that th' president is a great statesman, but they say it won't be generally known till th' unbiased historian gits busy. Much is bein' said about what th' Germans are liable t' do in November no matter who's nominated, but ther seems t' be little doubt. Th' fact that th' "Senate cabal" didn't go after th' German vote at Chicago is taken by many here t' mean that they regard it as a cinch. thusiasm, the convictions and the hopes of the Ohio Republicans assembled.

"I am sorry not to be present in this year of strengthened Republican confidence. Members of the convention will understand the impossibility of my attendance on this occasion at the same time approving, I hope, the consideration shown to Ohio at the national convention held at Chicago. Please convey my most cordial greetings along with the sincerest assurances of gratitude which a nominee may convey. I am uttering a party aspiration rather than a personal ambition when I remind the members of the convention that the nation is looking to Ohio this year to play her full part in the Republican restoration, with the attending return to to representative jeffian governament under the constitution. I know that the Ohio convention will be in accord with the plighted faith of the national convention and will be made to ring with that strength of purpose which will unfailingly appeal to the citizenship of state and nation which is eager to restore our party to conscience and a party for power.

"Warren G. Harding."

Allege Wet Slate Formed

The wet and dry issue which had remained in the dark during the first day of the Republican state convention, came to the front today when dry leaders and anti-saloon league workers charged their opponents with attempting to formulate a slate of act candidates. The proposed wet slate which the drys charge is trying to be worked out contemplates Walter F. Brown of Toledo for United States senator; former Mayor Harry L. Davis of Cleveland for governor; Lieutenant Governor Carmack Brown and Secretary of State Harvey C. Smith.

Friends of these candidates made flat denial that their candidates are involved in any way in promoting such a slate said they are steering clear of any combination, preferring to go it alone.

The alleged wet slate is said to have contemplated the withdrawal of Mr. Willis, leaving Mr. Brown practically a clear field against Justice R. M. Wanamaker of the state supreme court. Mr. Willis' friends made absolute denial that he will withdraw, contending that he can win regardless of whether all present candidates remain in the race.

There also was a rumor afloat that the drys were working in the interest of a slate which included Willis for senator; Ralph D. Cole of Findlay for governor, and Carl C. Kimball for Lieutenant governor. This was denied by the dry leaders and also by friends of the candidates.

All were singing the praises of United States Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, who delivered the address at last night's rally. He held the audience almost spell bound for two hours and concluded amid shouts of "go on, go on," notwithstanding the intense heat.

Mr. Watson's speech was a scathing denunciation of alleged extravagance and inefficiency on the part of the national administration in its conduct of the war; an arraignment of the league of nations and the administration's Mexican policy and an explanation of the Cummins-Esch railroad bill. Mr. Watson declared the railroad men were condemning the Cummins-Esch bill without just cause, asserting that the very provision, that of arbitration, which they have especially attacked, had been proven by the unauthorized railroad strike to be the salvation of the railroad unions.

Mr. Watson recited for almost an hour alleged instances of inefficiency and extravagance in the handling of war contracts, cited as proof testimony given before senatorial investigations. He particularly criticised President Wilson for going to Europe to negotiate the peace treaty and for alleged failure to keep the people of the United States and especially congress, informed on the treaty developments.

Arthur L. Garford of Elyria, former progressive, who presided at the rally, declared that any Republican, regardless of his former political connection is not a Republican if he refuses to support Senator Harding and Governor Coolidge, the Republican nominees.

The real harmony keynote of the convention was sounded by Wm. H. Boyd of Cleveland, a Wood delegate-at-large to the Chicago convention.

"We went into the Chicago convention as Republicans" Mr. Boyd said, speaking for himself and the eight other Ohio Wood delegates. "And by the eternal hills we came out as Republicans."

"We went into the Chicago convention," Boyd continued, determined to nominate General Wood and we are as equally determined now to do our highest and loveliest best to elect Warren G. Harding."

Mr. Boyd was followed by Harry M. Daugherty, Senator Harding's pre-convention campaign manager, whom Boyd defeated for delegate-at-large. He declared that he did not intend to wait "till eleven minutes after two on the afternoon of election day" to decide whom he would support for president and vice president. He felicitated Ohioans on the nomination of Senator Harding and urged a campaign of principles.

Mr. Daugherty brought the delegates to their feet and they gave three rousing cheers as he extended his hand to W. H. Boyd, his successful opponent in the presidential primary.

"I honor and respect the man who honestly and conscientiously antagonizes men in any cause and I honor and respect the man who defeats me," said Daugherty.

Coolidge's Statement

Governor Coolidge's statement follows:

"I am here to cooperate with my associates. We have many problems ahead. Many men have many remedies. The best remedy is the observance of the constitution and the laws, not their enforcement, mind you. I am not now speaking of that. Of course the government will enforce the laws. That is far from enough.

"There must be a return of public opinion toward a self control by the people, toward a great and ever increasing desire to observe the law. When that is done the other problems will fall away, there will be peace, prosperity and progress."

Seek Harmony On Taxation Program

COLUMBUS, O., June 30.—Committees were at work today attempting to bring together several state-wide organizations, including the state grange and other rural organizations, on the question of a state-wide taxation program. The committees were named yesterday at a meeting here of representatives of the various organizations.

Representatives of both a classification tax amendment and anti-classificationists were represented. It developed the rural organizations would oppose re-submission of a class tax amendment and proponents of classification did not insist on such a course.

The opposing factions did agree to try to work out a plan for financial relief for cities. A committee composed of Judge Rufus Smith, of Cincinnati, L. J. Taber, of Barnesville, president of the state grange, and Clarence Laylin, of Columbus, was named to frame a law to suspend operation of the Smith tax limit law for a period of five years. Other committees were appointed to draft laws and constitutional amendments, if necessary, to provide for a real budget system and also for strict debt limitation laws for taxing districts.

It was arranged to call a general state conference later. J. H. Wiles, of Portsmouth, presided over yesterday's meeting.

The Markets

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 30—Aside from its steadier tone, there were no signs at the opening of today's trading that the stock market would throw off its protracted torpor. A few important issues in the oil, shipping and steel groups recorded advances ranging from liberal fractions to a point, but many former leaders in the industrial and railroad divisions were unquoted in the first 15 minutes trading. Foreign exchange was easy in the preliminary quotations but firmer tendencies were looked for in call and time money rates.

For the first time in almost a fortnight the market developed a strong tone on relatively broad buying during the morning. Commission houses were among the purchasers of leading issues, especially steels and equipments at lots of 1,000 to 5,000 shares at gains of 1 to 2 points. Oils, motors, chemicals, shippings, coppers and tobaccos were 1 to 4 points higher and rails including secondary issues gained 1 to 2 points. The most substantial advances were made by express shares American express riding 8 points and Wells Fargo 5. Plenty of call money was available at 6 percent.

Tight money imposed obvious restraint upon the stock market today but sentiment in most quarters was more hopeful. Sales approximated 225,000 shares.

The closing was steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 30—Uncertainties in regard to possible development of black rust in the spring wheat belt tended today to lift prices for other grain, including corn. After opening unchanged to ¾ lower with July 1.75⅝ to 1.76 and September 1.70½ to 1.71, the corn market scored material gains all around.

The provision market receded as a result of weakness that developed in grain.

Oats were firmer with corn. Opening prices which ranged from ⅜c decline to ⅝c advance, including September at 87c to 87¾ were a general upturn.

Strength in grain and hogs gave steadiness to provisions.

Prices closed heavy 1⅜ to 1 ⅝lower, with July 1.72⅞ to 1.73 and September 1.68⅛ to 1.69.

Seeks Rent For Locomotive

The Enquirer of local interest Wednesday said:

Suit was entered in United States District Court yesterday by the Norfolk and Western Railway Company vs. the McDermott Stone Company, McDermott, Ohio, for the recovery of $10,917.79 alleged to be due as rental of a locomotive hired from the plaintiff by the defendant during the period from March 9, 1917, to November, 1919.

NEW YORK DELEGATION MAY BE PIVOT FOR COX

James W. Falkner in today's Enquirer says:

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., June 30—Swaying in a gigantic struggle are two great factors within the circle of contest for the presidential nomination.

There are the reaction from the skillfully marshaled movement for William G. McAdoo and the renewed driving of his generals to meet the foreseen transition. Preparations for this situation were made last night, in both camps. Before the convention reassembled today the furious attacks and counter-attacks were under way, and the whole line was ablaze with activity.

The members of the field—Governor James M. Cox, Attorney-General Mitchell Palmer, Senator Robert L. Owens, of Oklahoma, and their associates of lesser degree—were awake to the fact that pressure would have to be applied to the McAdoo trend in sufficient quantity to prevent it reaching a point from which a stampede could be launched to pass the two-thirds line.

Orders To Fight Issued

Orders flew fast from all headquarters to stiffen up the delegates against yielding to the pleas for promises to swing to McAdoo when their own first chances began to falter.

In a general way the batteries were opened against McAdoo's relationship with President Wilson, the savage battle cry of "No Crown Prince!" emerging this effective effort. Against it the McAdoo men were using the seductive band wagon appeal, and stories of breaks from the field. Pennants and badges made their appearance, and with them predictions of a nomination on a certain ballot.

By night fall it was reasonably plain that the drive was checked to a degree, and the field was able to report advance through the operation of their action against the continuance of a dynasty in the White House. In this performance there was no combination, but merely a common understanding that a united front was necessary to bring about a field of endeavor.

As an Ohio lieutenant phrased it on behalf of his chief, Governor Cox, the situation was that the Buckeye had a chance if the McAdoo drive could be stopped. Without it neither he, Palmer nor any one else could hope to win.

Undoubtedly in more hearts than any other candidate aside from Palmer and McAdoo, Cox must have a chance for a clearing-out succession of ballots, like his fellow candidate at Chicago, Warren G. Harding.

If the big New York delegation can be swung back into a friendly position where it can co-operate with Indiana and Illinois Cox will be restored to the highly advantageous position he occupied last Sunday.

Manager J. B. Wiles of the local Chamber of Commerce presided over a state-wide meeting held in Columbus Tuesday to draft laws to revise taxation laws in the state. Means of obtaining immediate financial relief for Ohio cities through a probable reorganization of the present taxation system was discussed by the representatives of various groups interested in Ohio's taxation problem.

A revision of the budget system is also proposed. Those present favor the convention of the various farm and business interests of the state to discuss and bring about a fair and comprehensive method of taxation for the state. Four Committees, Financial Relief, Debt Limitation of Taxation, Relief of Budget System and Taxation Convention for Ohio were appointed to take up the taxation problem and draft bills for its solution.

Whoop-La—Look What's Here Tonight—The Eastland Theatre Offers Another Big Double Program Representing William Russell in "Shod With Fire," a Two-Fisted Western Thriller, and Charlie Chaplin in "The Pawnshop," One of His Funniest.

Two of the screen's greatest stars will be offered at the Eastland Theatre tonight in the showing of William Russell in "Shod With Fire," and Charlie Chaplin in "The Pawnshop." "Shod With Fire" is a breezy, fast moving story of life on the plains taken from Harold Titus' famous book, "Bruce of the Circle A." William Russell, big, brave, brawny, is the ideal type of man to play the stellar role, and he again shows himself to be a master of horsemanship as well as an actor of remarkable ability. Big moments, thrilling situations, beautiful scenery and wonderful expressions of dramatic art make this production one which no one should miss. And then comes the big laugh in the form of the one and only Charlie Chaplin in his biggest laughmaker, "The Pawnshop." It goes without saying you are sure to enjoy this comedy. So don't let anything keep you from seeing this big show.

Lincoln Tonight. "For Husbands Only." A Dramatic Treat For The Whole Family Starring Mildred Harris.

Lois Weber scores again in "For Husbands Only." Mildred Harris or Mildred Chaplin if you wish it that way, has the star role in this photoplay which is in a class by itself. It is a picture along new lines with no borrowed ideas. The story is so original that you are unable to guess the action ten feet ahead. See the tense dramatic scene where he warns his friend to make a noise when he returns so he can catch him hugging his wife. You will have to see it to learn the finish. Every reel of action. Also a good comedy. No advance in prices.

GAIL KANE AND EDMUND BREESE IN A SCENE FROM "SOMEONE MUST PAY" GRAPHIC FILM CORPORATION

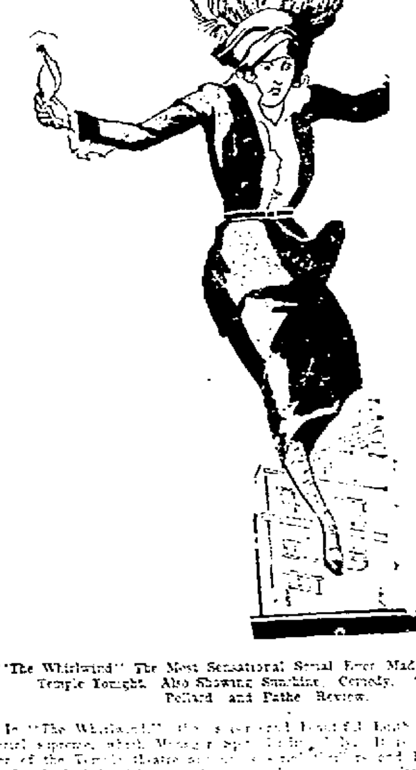

Is Your Married Life Happy? See How You Can Avoid Unhappiness In "Someone Must Pay," Playing At The Exhibit Theatre Tonight—A Play For All Humanity—7 Big Acts.

To take a page from life and throw it on the screen is one of the most difficult feats, because the popular conception of our daily existence does not permit the least extravagance in portrayal and only the greatest faith in ones ability coupled with indomitable courage will permit its attempt. An instance of such courageous effort is expressed in Ivan Abramson's absorbing drama "Someone Must Pay" which is playing at the Exhibit tonight.

In this drama of human hearts the author-director levels his unerring battery of reason on the one prevalent weakness in our make-up, jealousy. Mr. Abramson does not hesitate to call a spade a spade as it is only by being entirely frank that the besetting sin can be handled and the effect of it on our lives made clear.

The story deals with characters such as any one may have on his list of friends. It is a straight forward tale that goes directly to the point without glossing over a single scene. It breathes truth and the unalterable convictions of an author whose masterpictures have made an enviable name for him.

It is a picture every person in Portsmouth should see. Owing to the increased rental this production cost and the length of the subject the prices for tonight will be Adults 25 cents, children 10 cents. Owing to the length of this play the management advises an early attendance.

Camp Recreation

(Somewhere on the Scioto)

Since reading of the boys "Campin' on Kinney," I thought perhaps some might enjoy reading about our camp and campers "Somewhere on the Scioto." It must be understood that no names are mentioned as the writer might get in bad. I mean to tell the truth as near as possible without the public discovering our identity.

We are just getting our camp started and in a few days the whole family will be settled here in the beautiful grove. (By the whole family I mean "ma," her children and their children which number forty-five. Just enough to make a "chummy" camp settlement. Some people might say "such a crowd." but really we enjoy having every one of them. We landed in this place Friday the 18th and three of our large families staid all night, of course, I was one of them. We had a wonderful night's rest and awakened bright and early Saturday morning as hungry as wolves. While one made a fire the others set the table while I fried the eggs and bacon and made some coffee. Such a delicious breakfast. No one knows but they who have eaten their first meal in camp. By first I mean before the flies appear. After a hard day's work of fixing bunks and a place to eat, a few more of the family arrived, I might say slipped into camp, for a slight rain had made walking a little risky.

The first we knew they were among us. My sister weighing a little over two hundred pounds shot right into the crowd on her back with her hat hanging on one ear and a very frightened expression in her eyes as she held the hand of her small son. He was also indulging in the "slide." Of course he did not tear up quite so much earth as his mother, yet the poor boy was sure yelling.

After getting them to their feet and being assured they were none the worse for their fall we inquired as to the rest of the family. Some came carrying their shoes while others with feet so heavy they could hardly carry them.

When supper was over which consisted of baked beans, ham, fried potatoes, jelly and hot bread and coffee we were ready to retire.

Sis, husband, five children, nine chickens and one ugly duck occupied two medium beds. How they slept we could not understand. One little child fell out of bed and by the time they had her back in bed two more lay on the "cold, cold ground."

Sunday morning found everybody up early, as the flies out here arise about 2:30 a. m. We can stand them about three hours then it is either get up or be "eat up." The flies are ready for breakfast by the time it is on the table.

Today has been a miserable day. The rain has fallen in torrents and so have the campers. Gee! the ground is slick and everybody has their toenails turn back from trying to stay on top.

This evening there was a little excitement as one brother and his son had their car stalled in the mud. The whole bunch from the oldest to the youngest either pushed or held on to till finally we had the car on top of the hill, then—Oh, Gee! the wheels flew in the air for a moment then down the hill it came. Such a scramble for safety. No one killed, so again we took it up the hill, and again it came down. We took it up and that time it went over the top and they were on their way. It was a muddy crowd that waved their hands to the occupants of the grey car.

In a game that was as full of wrangling as tangles in a kid's curls, the Steel Plant team, champions of the Industrial league, won out over the Arch Preservers at the Seventeenth street yards, last evening, by the score of 6 to 2, due mainly to some wild work on the base paths by the Selbys, coupled with the ability of Carl Whitlatch, gilbert southpaw for the Steelmen, to sandwich a strike-out when it would block the Shoeworkers the most effectively.

The Arch Preservers hit the ball hard and viciously, running up a dozen safe blows, but they could not make use of these bingles in anything like the cashing ability of the Steelmen, who made their ten hits off Mr. Lewis urlig them a half-dozen runs —and therein lay the difference between the two teams. Its no wonder Manager Joe Brennen has tufts of grey peeping through those inclined-to-be blonde locks of his.

A great throng was out interest in the league being at fever heat and constantly growing hotter. Umpire Theodore Branham came in for considerable panning as the result of three close decisions going to the credit of the Steelmen, and there were some close plays last evening. The players were on their toes all the way and the game was desperately fought, despite the one-sidedness of the score. The Selbys always had a chance, up until the last man was out, but, as stated above, Whitlatch, who took his time and then some, was there with the proper stuff in the pinches and blocked the opposition with a strikeout. He fanned seven men, and five of these fanning bees came with men on the bases and all in a scoring position. The game was a long drawn out affair, extending five minutes over two hours, and the moon was shining bright when the last man was extinguished.

While Mr. Whitlatch deserves all sorts of credit for the victory, let it be said right here that "Hi Henry" Fortner, short-stop for the Steelmen, eared the game for his team when in the sixth frame, with men on second and third, and two men out, he raced over the second bag and nabbed Stewart's hard smash, tossing it to first in plenty of time. It was the best play of the game and saved at least one run and possibly the game. It was one of the best plays of the year. Fortner, by the way, is one of the most promising youngsters in the league and getting better right along.

The game was featured by some real hitting. Hock, short-stop for Selbys, and Kearns, right fielder, going fifty fifty on a half-dozen hits. Manager Brennen helped himself to two swats in three trips. Fortner, Evans and Stillwell of the Champions, secured two hits each, the latter making a triple on his second trip to the plate. He had been presented with a $5.00 bill by Umpire Yeager as a reward for making a home run drive on last Saturday afternoon. The gift was a present from W. W. Bauer, prominent real estate man and 33rd degree fan, and is the fourth William Mc. Bauer has parted with this season. He still has some remaining and the diggers are advised to go and get them.

By winning last evening, the Steelmen are on their way toward the pennant. They are quite certain they will never be headed off, although Manager Clare is making no predictions at this stage of the game. The team is out there fighting for every point as is its right and duty, and displays an aggressiveness without which a team can get nowhere. Incidentally the club is playing intelligent baseball, making no brain mistakes—and that is worth a half dozen hits sometimes.

The Steelmen, as is their wont, got the jump on their adversaries in the opening inning, scoring a couple of runs before the opposition could get properly settled. Fortner led off with a blooder to third, which he beat out, and he immediately stole second. Evans shot a single to middle. Fortner scoring. Staten sacrificed very cleverly. Hock tossed high on Conwell's error and Evans raced home. Lewis faltered and allowed no further scoring. In the third the Steelmen earned a run on Stillwell's triple and Davis' single. They went out in order in the fourth and fifth frames, but in the sixth added a run. Stillwell started the aggressiveness with a single to right. Davis, who was substituting for Cottrell, walked. Haupt sacrificed. Prediger tried hard for a hit, but his effort was a fly to left, too low in to permit of Stillwell's scoring. Whitlatch, however, clipped a single to left that produced the score.

The Champions made two in the fourth. Fortner singled and went to second on a wild pitch. Evans beat out a well-placed bunt. Fortner scored on Stewart's error at third and Evans came in on Conwell's sacrifice fly to left.

The Arch Preservers made three hits in a row in the second, but did not score. Kearns, Spence and Collis singled in rapid succession, but Kearns was caught at third on Spence's cap, and the succeeding batsmen could not bring the marooned passengers to port. In the third, Hock placed a single to middle and went to second on Stewart's safe blow to the same precinct. Manager Brennen was the man of the hour, shooting a long single to center, Hock scoring. Haupt then dropped Kearn's line drive, Stewart coming in. Spence was hit with a pitched ball and it looked as though the baloon was about to go up. But Whitlatch fanned Collis and Prediger nailed Weber's fly. The score:

Courts Ready For Play

The Masonic Tennis Club's courts at Millbrook park are in splendid shape and the members are urged to get busy and use them during the good weather. All Masons who contemplate joining the Club are invited to play. The nets for the courts are being kept temporarily at the office of the Whitaker Glessner company, Rhodes avenue New Boston.

Tennis Club Is Planning To Hold Tournament Here

The Hilltop Tennis Club has decided to build another court so popular is this pastime in that section of the city. Members of the club are willing to meet all comers and later on a city wide tournament will be arranged by Carl Bauer county recorder. It probably will be held in the early fall when many of the players will be in fine form.

The courts are located on Twenty-Second street and Grandview avenue.

MAULS THE SOUTHPAWS

Every time a southpaw faces the Cardinals McHenry is sent to center field. Mack is poison to the "crooked arms." In his Ohio State League days he used to maul the port flippers. While in the city the other day Manager Rickey said he would not take $25,000 for the Adams county boy.

You tell 'em interurban I am off my trolley.

Monk Comes After "Duds"

Catcher Monk of this city, who recently joined the St. Louis team was in the city last night. He came here after his "duds" as he is going to stick with the Cardinals. Rickey is partial to young backstops and he has made a real catcher out of Dilhoefer.

Monk rejoined his team this morning.

Selby Girls Bowling League

The race in the Girls' Bowling League is getting more close and exciting each game. Last evening Polly's Pals, who hold the enviable first place, were sadly beaten by the Fixers, who completely walked away with the first two games. The dazed Polly and her Pals tried to rally in the last game, and succeeded in so far as to get 67 more pins than the Fixers. On Thursday night of this week the Hoodlums and Getaplus roll.

JUST DOPE

Before leaving the city Monday Manager Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals stated that Manager McGraw recently offered him $200,000 for his star second sacker. Hornsby, and then came back and offered him three players where he turned down the first offer.

"Hornsby is not on the market and will not be on the market, and this is final," Rickey told local friends while in the city.

CINCINNATI, June 29—The Board or Directors of the club held a meeting yesterday at which the local sporting writers were present. President Herrmann made a convincing statement to show that the club is sparing no money or effort to strengthen the club and he was corroborated by Manager Moran and Scout McCann. The club is now employing more scouts than any other team in either league and has made very large offers for several first-class minor league players, but cannot obtain them until the close of their seasons. The club has also just refused to waive on two National League players of class and hopes to be lucky enough to secure them. The club made the mistake of starting the season without enough reserve strength, but is doing everything possible to remedy this condition regardless of expense.

CINCINNATI, June 30—Catcher Wingo was indefinitely suspended yesterday by President Heydler for the use of abusive language to Umpire Klem in the sixth inning of the second game of the double header on Saturday. As Bill Rariden is still bothered by a badly bent digit, this means that Nick Allen will have to do all of the catching for the present. Nick can do it all right, but if he should be hurt there would be a mighty dearth of backstops on the team. Perhaps Manager Moran, who was one of the best in his day, might be forced to don the mask and protector again.

The Reds are showing the real fighting spirit this season. After dropping three in a row to the Cardinals the team braced and has copped the next two.

This is conclusive proof that the team will not quit under fire. There is no question about the Reds repeating if their pitchers show anywhere near the class they did last year.

You tell 'em conductor you can face the music.

There must be considerable feeling between the Reds and the Cardinals. During the present bitterly contested series there have been a number of near scraps.

Yesterday Roush and Stock almost got into a fight. Roush was caught off second by Sherdel and Stock. The latter made some insulting remarks to Roush and the latter resented them. Players separated the belligerents. Stock evidently was sore because Roush had just driven in two runs with his timely hit.

CINCINNATI, O., June 30—Two more recruits made their appearance in Cincinnati uniforms Tuesday, and cavorted under the watchful eye of Manager Moran and before the populace, who looked on in hope that the youngsters will make good. One was Lambert, first baseman of the Bellevue (Ky.) team, and the other was John Lewis Tiede, of Georgetown, who was unearthed by Slim Sallee. His discoverer declares that Tiede has the makings of a real twirler and the Reds who studied his performance in practice believe that he is a future star.

Big Jake Daubert was back on first base for the Reds Tuesday. He was hurt in Philadelphia several days ago. His return greatly strengthens the Moran men. Roush returned to center and Sue to the bench. The latter put up a sterling article of ball while performing in Roush's shoes.

Everything Arranged For Big Games

W. S. Gableman, owner of the "All Stars" has returned from Cincinnati where he not only saw the Reds hand a trimming to the Cardinals, but completed all arrangements for the appearance of the Urichs at Millbrook Park on next Sunday and Monday afternoons. The Urichs, it will be recalled, played the All Stars at Millbrook Park on the afternoon of May 23 and were defeated by the locals, 4 to 3, after one of the greatest games ever witnessed in these parts. The Urichs presented their full strength, with their crack moundsman, Mason, the three fingered marvel, on the mound. The game went to eleven innings and was hard fought all the way.

Owner Gableman states that the Urichs will be here with the same line up and that Marcus will pitch one of the games, probably the one on Monday which will be observed as the Fourth of July. Arrangements will be completed to care for the vast throngs that are expected to assemble at the park on both afternoons. The fans of Portsmouth are anxiously awaiting the reappearance of the Urichs, who stamped themselves as being wonderful ball players and gentlemen in every sense of the word.

On Saturday and Sunday, July 10 and 11, the Mark-Grays, led by Homer Cain and Stewart Dilts will be the opponents of the All Stars at Millbrook.

Three Great Days At Coney

Flaming red posters are out announcing three big days at Coney Island on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, July 3, 4 and 5. And judging from the interest manifested in the horse races, baseball games and other forms of amusement, Kentucky's model summer resort will entertain great throngs of people on the three days.

The manager of Coney Island, Captain J. S. Davis, has gone to great expense in arranging for the entertainment of the visitors. He has booked some of the best trotting and pacing horses in Ohio and Kentucky for the three days, which will culminate on Monday afternoon with a free-for-all race, in which there is no question, but a low mark will be established for the Coney Island race track, which has been placed in the best possible condition for the performance of the bang tails. On Sunday afternoon, it is arranged to have a game of baseball between the Mirrole Men and the Portsmouth Cubs, in addition to two crack horse races on that afternoon. A game of baseball will also be played on Monday afternoon, and in order to accommodate the crowds, the ferryboat will leave the foot of Chillicothe street at 1 and 2 o'clock p. m., central standard time, on the above days. Te new merry-go-round is in full operation and is one of the best machines of its kind in these parts.

Leet Lumber Company went into first place in the Manufacturer's League Tuesday night when they won a walk away game from the Mitchell Manufacturing Company's aggregation by the score of 15 to 6.

The Mitchell bunch was minus the service of Green, their star pitcher Tuesday night and with him out of the lineup the team acted like a ship at sea without a pilot at the wheel. Evans who started the game on the mound was found easy by the hard hitting Leets and after two innings he gave way in favor of Platt who worked three innings, Chilton then taking up the hurling duties.

COLBY WAGES FIGHT FOR LIGHT WINE AND BEER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30—Secretary Colby, early this morning was waging a fight in the platform 'sub-committee for a light wine and beer plank. He was arguing it as a political expedient and not necessarily his personal views.

The fact that Secretary Colby conferred with the president before leaving Washington for San Francisco added significance to his stand.

Some of the committeemen were of the opinion that the Volstead act should be amended so as to make its enforcement less stringent.

A wide variety of suggestions, ranging from the strictest enforcement of the law to Colby's suggestion, were offered. Senator McKellar brought in the Bryan proposal.

The discussions embraced a wide range of subjects, including the league of nations, but prohibition had the floor most of the time.

The sub platform committee adjourned without completing its work early this morning and will meet again at 9:30. No announcement was made by Chairman Glass.

Donnel reader, who will make her initial appearance to a local audience. No admission will be charged, a silver offering being taken to augment the missionary fund of this society.

Auto Club Going After 1,000 Members

An enthusiastic meeting of the Portsmouth Automobile club directors was held Tuesday night at the Chamber of Commerce rooms the officers meeting in weekly session.

John A. Wilhelm presided in the absence of President Nelson Whitaker, who was out of the city. Volney S. Taylor, chairman of the membership committee reported his work progressing nicely. Captains have been appointed in each ward and they will appoint block lieutenants. The club has a list of 4,500 auto owners in the county and an effort will be made to reach every one of them. They will be solicited for membership. In the outlying districts Clyde Brant will head the soliciting work in Lucasville district, George Koch, Wheelersburg district and John Miller, Buena Vista and Friendship district. The club is also sending out an invitation letter to all auto owners explaining the advantages of the Auto club. A number of memberships are expected to result from the letter and in a short time this will be followed by the county-wide drive. The club hopes to have 1,000 members within a few months. The secretary was also ordered to purchase 500 radiator emblems. Another meeting of the directors will be held next Tuesday evening.

THE EXPECTED OCCURS

ADMIRATION for the political experts, foregathered in vast numbers and profound wisdom, at San Francisco, is not raised to the bubbling point, when outcome is compared to their predictions.

For ten days and more they have been regaling the country with dark forebodings of opposition to the administration and uncertainty as to eventual outcome, when here comes the real news that the forces friendly to the administration had not only swept the platter clean, but that the opposition wasn't strong enough to assume the stature of a respectable minority. More significant still, with a hindsight that has no peer, these same experts tell us that the tribute the convention gave to Wilson himself had a thrill and a heart-feeling, the like of which had never been seen before in a national assembly.

There never should have been any doubt, let alone any intimation, that results would be otherwise. Set it down in the first place that a party never has repudiated its administration and never will, unless in such dire straits therewith as are inconceivable. In the second place, there is in the performances of the Democratic administration much to warm the partisan heart to its very cockles, when they are recounted by so skillful an advocate and compeling orator as Chairman Cummings proved himself to be. Why, take the war, so magnificently prosecuted and so gloriously won, there is enough in that alone, when eloquent tongue comes to reciting its story, to cause red blood to run riot. Heap on the fact that in all his service President Wilson has been sorely beset with troublesome problems, with no man ever so abused and villified, even in desperate illness, and you have ample to set the human heart to throbbing and throat to tumultuous paens.

THE LOW WATER MARK

THE giving out of the first count of a state, Delaware, bears out the general assumption, that the country at large will show the smallest per cent gain in population ever shown by a census.

Delaware's gain was a trifle over one per cent for each year of the decade. The country may, as a whole, show greater increase, but not likely a substantial one. The reasons why it will not are threefold and evident. The chief one is that for five years of the ten there has been no immigration. Broadly speaking, before the war, a million foreigners used to come to this country every year. Practically all of this annual increase has been lost. In the second place and contrawise, for the same period, foreigners have been going back home in increasing number and several hundred thousand have been lost from this cause. Lastly the war and two epidemics have caused an estimated loss of half a million by an abnormal death rate.

The descent of population gain to the low water mark is not the chief evil the census will show. That will appear in the presentation of the growth of cities and towns at the expense of the country. It is the universal testimony of history that the closer the population is kept to the soil the more virile and virtuous it is. America is moving rapidly from the soil and always with increased momentum. It is not a healthy movement. To it may be ascribed much of the disturbance and unrest that fret the present times.

According to the probate clerk at Columbus June is the best month for marriages. By careful data he finds that divorces are sought in only five per cent of marriages in this month, while in all the others the per centage runs up to 9 per cent. His explanation is that June marriages are longer engagements and the man and girl come to understand each other better before "tying up."

Some dozen or more of favorite sons will be voted for on the first ballot, and the first ballot only, at the San Francisco convention. This is an absurdity, but a good thing at that. It will eventually kill the whole favorite son absurdity.

San Francisco, it is admitted a long ways from here, but at the distance it looks like Ohio had committed a blunder there in voting for the seating of Jim Reed, and the worst of it is it's one that counts in the ready use of it against her.

There are correspondents of all degrees of fame and some of none at all, at San Francisco, but in Abe Martin, the plain and unpretentious Hoosier observer and philosopher, The Times claims to be superior of them all. He has the Democratic spirit and instinct and he talks in a homely fashion that is appealing in its kindly humor. One of his special felicities was in referring to Bryan as the Star of Hope of the Republican party. Baker and Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League, who are at Frisco, have in him a spokesman after their own hearts.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

By PHYLLIS PHELPS

THE AWAKENING

July 9.—Went to my studio for the first time in more than a week today. My, but it was good to get back there again. Finished that painting of myself and it looks pretty good to me.

Got another canvas ready to start that head of Cecil tomorrow, for he has promised to pose for me. He has such a handsome profile that it will be a pleasure to work on it. He seemed awful pleased to help me out. I suspect it is mostly because he knows that by so doing he will be alone with me for an hour or two a day!

Just as I was fixing things up the 'phone rang and no other person than Brixy was on the wire. It seemed ages since I had seen or heard from him, poor dear, and I told him to come right over and keep me company.

He came, fairly beaming with happiness to see me again. I must say that it seems as though I had been living for ages since I last thrilled to Brixy's looks of admiration. Can't explain why, but I think that it is because I have had the dark eyes of Cecil and Prince Charming playing tricks with my heart and imagination. Must be that. In other words, I have grown up with a bound!

I feel a wee bit sad about this sudden leap into the land of the fully developed grown-ups, somehow or other. I know that my girlish peace of mind has gone forever. I am a restless young woman and full of knowledge and you know that old saying about a little knowledge being a dangerous thing?

My life can never be the same singsong sort of existence that it was before I kissed—other men. I am deeply alive to my own powers and I have felt men tremble at my nearness. That, in itself, is dangerous and disturbing. My extreme girlhood seems very far behind me just now. I guess that I am what you call awakened! And I've always wondered just what that meant in regard to a woman. Have read about it in all sorts of books and magazines and been always curious. Now I have experienced for myself. Aunt Cecilia is right, I must go through the flame and be burnt, not listen to others.

So it was that my old playmate, Brixy, struck me as being a thing of the past, the extreme past, quite a child in fact, though very sweet and dear to me.

He too saw a change in me, for he said several times: "Lindy, dear, what have you been doing to yourself. You act so grown-up and different. Why, your very face has changed." But of course that was all imagination on his part.

I soon convinced him that to him I was, and always would be, the same old Lindsey, which seemed to cheer him considerably.

And to think that not so long ago I was sure that I was madly in love with Brixy, that he fulfilled my every dream of perfect manhood, and that I had even thought of him as a possible husband and the father of several little Lindseys (that was all a year ago before I had decided that no child should enter my life before I was twenty-five years of age, of course.) And it just goes to show you how often a girl of nineteen changes her mind. So why marry?

Brixy and I spent the rest of the afternoon in swapping jokes, like any two kids, in fact. I find that with him I become a happy, untroubled kiddie, and it's awfully sweet. It also proves that I do not love him not even a teeny, weeny bit! How funny, after all my thoughts of a few weeks ago.

BILLY WHISKERS

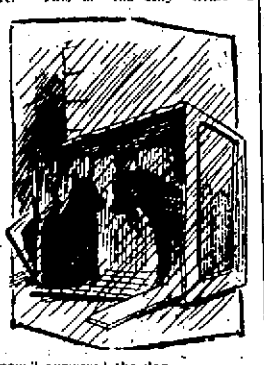

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

When Billy Jr. found that he had crawled under the same box with a little yellow doggie, he said: "Well, what are you doing here?"

"That is the question I was about to ask you," replied the dog.

"I came in to get out of the rain because all the other places were shut," said Billy Jr.

"And I came here because I live here. This is the only home I know," answered the dog.

"Oh, if that is the case I will be going, as I do not wish to intrude."

"You are perfectly welcome to stay and share the shelter of my home, poor as it is," said the dog, whose name was Stubby.

"You are exceedingly kind," replied Billy. "I will gladly stay if only for your company. I hate being out alone in a thunder storm."

After this they became very well acquainted and prolonged their talk far into the night, exchanging confidences and experiences.

As you all know Billy's history, I will not repeat what he told the dog, but will confine myself to the sad story of Stubby's life.

Stubby was undoubtedly of common parentage with not a drop of blue blood in his veins, but he had plenty of good red blood, so he did not care, only he often thought it would be very nice to be petted and feel as thoroughbreds were. This wish, however, only came on days when he had nothing to eat but a piece of mouldy bread from the garbage box and nothing to drink but water out of a mud puddle. On other days he would not exchange his lot for that of a King Charles lying on a satin cushion on my lady's boudoir, or taken for a walk at the end of a silver chain?

No, he would not change his free, roving life and home in a packing box for all the satin cushions in the world. He felt that he should sicken and die shut up in a home, fed on bonbons, and only allowed to run to the length of a short chain. To be sure, it must be nice to have for a mistress a pretty lady who would stroke you with her soft white hand, or a sweet little girl to romp and play with, but one could not have these joys without the evils of being shut up in an overheated house, and that he knew he could not stand.

He had been born under a barn standing in the suburbs of San Francisco. His father he had never seen and his mother was a small yellow dog like himself, only she had a tail that curled in a beautiful manner once and a half times around, of which she was very proud. His tail had curled in this same way until some bad boys caught him and cut it off.

(More of Stubby's life story tomorrow.)

New-York - Day - By - Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 30—

Away up in Broux Park.
There is a beautiful lake.
Set between quiet hills.
And the other day.
I climbed up on a bluff.
And watched blue herons.

But one goes with a dream in her eyes.

Two of them have the eyes of girls
Whose hair is learning scorn of curls,
But the eyes of one are like wide doors
Opening out on misted shores.

And they will go as they go today
On to the end of life's short way;
Two will have what living buys,
And one will have the dream in her eyes.

Two will die as many must,
And fifty dust will welcome dust;
But dust has nothing to do with one—
She dies as soon as her dream is done.

Those wading birds.
With long necks and legs.
And I got to laughing.
A sad eyed fellow came along.
And he had a notebook.
And very soulful eyes.
And he was speaking.
Some vagrant lines.
About the blue herons.
Sailing against the mist.
Athwart the purple hills.
And I knew what he was.
But I like poets.
I wanted to be one myself.
And used to write poetry.
To the girl who is my wife.
And it was awful sloppy.
And when she reads it.
When company is around.
I look like a fool.
And there is one silly line.
Where I said something.
About my love being as constant.
As the ripples on an angry sea.
And you know boys.
How that kind of stuff.
Makes you feel 10 years.
After you marched to the alter.
But I am digressing.
The poet sat down by me.
And told me he was a hidalgo.
And I thought he meant.
He was just a wop.
But I looked it up.
And its a bum nobleman.
And they come from Spain.
But anyway I had a pencil.
And showed it to him.
To prove I was a writer.
And we wrote a poem.
And sent it to Snappy Stories.
And it just came back today.
With a rejection slip.
And that is why.
I happened to write this.

Mrs. Philip Snowden, the noted English radical and Socialist, who recently returned from Russia as a member of the British labor delegation investigating conditions there, has made the interesting statement that soviet Russia has nothing to teach western Europe. MRS. SNOWDEN

Mrs. Snowden is very well known in America. She toured the country for suffrage in 1909, and during the summer and fall of 1915 she attended various women's conferences throughout the U. S. and was a delegate to the women's peace congress held in San Francisco.

Philip Snowden, the distinguished lady's husband, is a member of parliament from Blackburn and is one of the most influential men in the Labor party. She will almost certainly be a candidate for parliament on the Labor ticket at the next general election. An important plank in her platform will be universal disarmament, a doctrine which she has preached for many years.

PROHIBITION ISSUE STUMBLING BLOCK FOR PLATFORM COMMITTEE

PLATFORM STILL UNFINISHED; NOMINATING SPEECHES TODAY

McAdoo's Named To Be Formally Placed In Nomination Over Protest

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Stripped for action, the Democratic national convention today swung into the business of selecting a presidential nominee.

Meeting an hour earlier than usual, and working under an order of business which permitted the presentation of candidates before the party platform has been adopted, the convention turned upon the day of demonstration and oratory which marks the placing of candidates in formal nomination.

With all nominating addresses restricted to 20 minutes and seconding speeches to five and limited to not more than three in number to a candidate, each of the possibilities had not more than 35 minutes for full description of his merits and capacity for the nation's highest gift. Working under that high-geared program it was within the range of possibilities that the nominating speeches would all be delivered today, thus clearing the way for the presentation of the platform the first thing Thursday morning, if the resolutions committee can complete it by that time.

Speeches were on the program nominating:

William G. McAdoo.
Attorney General Palmer.
Governor Cox, of Ohio.
Chairman Homer S. Cummings of the National Democratic committee.
Governor Edwards, of New Jersey.
Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska.
James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany.
Senator Owen, of Oklahoma.
John W. Davis, ambassador to Great Britain.

To Present McAdoo's Name

At the eleventh hour friends of William G. McAdoo, abandoned efforts to prevent his being placed in formal realization. Dr. Burris Jenkins, of Kansas City, will deliver the nominating speech. The forces here which have for McAdoo's nomination had been clinging to the belief that his prospects for success would be promoted by not putting him forward at the outset in a test of strength with Cox and Palmer. Mrs. Antoinette Funk, of Chicago, and Mrs. Peter Olesen, of Olequr, Minn., will make seconding speeches.

Decision to have Dr. Jenkins speak, was not reached definitely until today, because certain of McAdoo's friends thought his last telegram urging that a speech not be made should be adhered to. It was thought by some, however, that a nominating speech should be delivered in fairness to the delegates who, if no mention were made of Mr. McAdoo during the nominating speeches, might be in the dark as to his position in the convention. No effort was made to get in touch with McAdoo, but it was not thought he would make further protest against the plans of his friends. They were generally agreed that no further statement of any kind would be forthcoming from him until after the convention nominates a candidate.

Claim 300 For McAdoo On First

The total McAdoo strength on the first ballot, according to the latest estimate of McAdoo's supporters, will approximate 300 votes. Some say it will not be more than 250, while others insist it will run over 300.

Thus far, the McAdoo men said, they have suffered only one defection. The Maryland delegation, which had been casting its entire column, will cast its forty votes for John W. Davis, according to information given out early today. The McAdoo supporters said they expect Maryland's votes to return to them after a few ballots.

Both the Cox and Palmer forces viewed with evident satisfaction the scrimmage within the McAdoo forces which was threatening to bring McAdoo to the front at once and make the nomination a three-cornered contest from the beginning. They have insisted all along that they would not permit the McAdoo movement to enjoy the advantage of a reserved seat in the rear to wait for a psychological moment when the convention, unable to throw a two-thirds vote to either of them, would turn to some one else.

Palmer headquarters issued a formal statement that the attorney general's position was "stronger than it ever has been before," announced that his forces were intact, and claimed votes in the convention which would not be shown on the first ballot, because they would be cast for favorite sons, and would come to the Palmer column on the second ballot."

Cox Forces Undisturbed

Cox forces professedly undisturbed by the wet and dry argument which has ranged around its candidate and the outside issues which have been injected into his campaign, were tightening up their lines and were ready to start the balloting.

Despite the promise that the convention would have a "big three" at the outset, dark horse talk was never more persistent than it is at the moment the candidates are about to be placed in nomination. The names of Vice President Marshall, John W. Davis, ambassador to Great Britain, and Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the Democratic national committee, were always heard when dark horses were being discussed and delegates were taking into consideration that each of the "big three" could prevent the others from getting a two-thirds vote.

The Cummings boom grew from a mere demonstration of enthusiasm to formidable proportions in the 24 hours which followed the chairman's opening address and today it had taken full form with hand bills being circulated among the delegates declaring "a great moment has produced a great man."

Democrats through the country, too, were responding to the sentiment, apparently, for the national chairman's desk was piled with congratulatory telegrams.

Bryan Opposed To Cummings

The growing boom of Cummings, however, brought with it a forecast of opposition from Bryan, who some time ago denounced the national chairman for making a speech at a banquet given for Governor Edwards, an avowed wet candidate. The chairman's friends also were not unmindful that his connection as a lawyer with large business interests would furnish Bryan with an opportunity to use one of his favorite weapons in a convention—a blast at big business.

But whatever the varying strength of the candidates may be, the fact still stands out as the convention gets down to the business of making a choice, that the prohibition and League of Nations issue looming in the back ground, still remain predominating factors and that their disposition is still inseparably linked with the choosing of a candidate.

The decision of the platform subcommittee last night in disregarding a straight out wet plank calling for the repeal of the 18th amendment or the annulment of the Volstead act, reduced the issue to whether there should be a beer and wine plank, or a bone dry declaration as is hoped by William J. Bryan, or ignore the subject entirely.

There are some who feel that the convention would do well to pass the subject entirely as the Republicans did at Chicago, but that conflicts directly with Bryan's announced intention to have "a platform no wet can run on."

Bryan To Fight To Last

Whether Bryan hopes to win or not, he intends to fight in the old-time fashion which has furnished fireworks for many a Democratic convention. He stands by his determination to force every delegate to record his or her vote individually on the issue if a plank which he considers "wet" is to be taken into the platform. Although the White House has kept its hands off the prohibition fight, there are administration leaders on the ground who, while opposing Bryan's bone dry plank on the one hand, are outspoken in their determination that the convention shall do no "pussyfooting," but shall make a clear-cut decision one way or the other.

Chief among these is Postmaster General Burleson. It is understood they are not eager for a roll call on the issue. There has been an informal counting of noses on the prohibition question and even the most ardent wets agree that on a test vote a majority of the convention would be recorded for a dry plank. The more optimistic of the dry leaders say their defeat would be by a majority of 50 votes and some of them estimate the majority as high as 200.

The sub-committee of nine actually framing the platform worked through the night, although without promise of bringing out the document today but with hope of being able to get into position to pursue its work to finality with the full membership of the resolutions committee.

Walsh Proves Snag

The first snag was struck when Senator Walsh, of Montana, who was generally regarded as Bryan's choice for the committee chairmanship, but who withdrew without a contest in favor of Senator Glass, the administration selection, opposed the plan of having the drafting committee go ahead before obtaining the views of the full committee.

It was no secret that Senator Glass brought from Washington virtually a complete draft of such a platform as President Wilson would prefer to see written and that Secretary Colby, another member of the drafting committee, brought with him a League of Nations' plank embodying the ideas, if not actually the language of President Wilson.

The drafting committee started out with a plan to go ahead with the planks brought by Senator Glass and Secretary Colby and build up the platform. Senator Walsh, it was understood delayed that program by insisting that before the drafting committee could go ahead with its work, it would necessarily have to gather the views of the membership of the entire committee formed in the light of the hearings held publicly. Mr. Walsh contended that the drafting committee was merely an instrument to reduce to writing the views of the full committee and that it could not proceed without learning them. That slowed down the proceedings considerably until today when the individual members could be called in. Meanwhile the sub-committee continues to work in secret on the other phases leading up to the drafting and it was announced with definite finality that nothing was being decided and that therefore it was announced would accept the prepared planks as brought from Washington by Senator Glass and Secretary Colby, or insisting on making a platform of its own.

Before the work of the drafting committee had progressed far, George Creel, who was chairman of President Wilson's committee on public information during the war joined the conferences. Mr. Creel, who came to San Francisco with Secretary Daniels is acting, it was said, as a literary adviser to the drafting committee, to polish up the phases of the platform as Colonel George Harvey did for the Republicans at Chicago.

Mr. Bryan who had declined to present his planks to the sub-committee, held aloof from the deliberations and worked alone preparing for his fight before the full committee membership, and later the convention itself.

The Program For Today

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Today's Democratic convention program:

Meet at 11 a. m.

Prayer by Rabbi Martin A. Meyer, of San Francisco.

Presentation of candidates for presidential nomination.

Nominating speeches limited to 20 minutes each; seconding speeches to five minutes and not more than three for each candidate.

DAUGHERTY REFUSES TO ACCEPT NOMINATION FOR OHIO ELECTOR

COLUMBUS, O., June 30—With the keynote speech out of the way, the platform in almost completed form and district delegates selected, the Republican state convention was ready today to complete its work and adjourn.

The resolutions committee adjourned early today after meeting for several hours in an attempt to perfect the platform. Although the platform was virtually completed some minor changes were to be made when the committee met again at 9 o'clock this morning.

Shortly before adjournment Harry L. Davis of Cleveland and Ralph D. Cole of Findlay, candidates for governor, were called into the committee meeting and the platform, as then drafted, read to them. Both approved it.

No agreement had been reached early today on the second elector at large, following definite announcement last night that Harry M. Daugherty Senator Harding's preconvention campaign manager, had declined to accept the nomination. There was a division of opinion as to whether the second elector at large should be a farmer or a city business man. William H. Boyd of Cleveland, a Wood delegate to the national convention is expected to be the other elector at large. Both Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Boyd spoke at yesterday's session on invitation of the convention.

So far no candidates have been permitted to address the convention, but it is expected that the bars will be let down today and each candidate who wishes to speak be allotted a few minutes time. They hail to be content yesterday and last night with interviewing county delegations and not one lost a minute in extending the welcome hand. Most of them remained about their headquarters until after midnight.

All were singing the praises of United States Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, who delivered the address at last night's rally. He held the audience almost spell bound for two hours and concluded amid shouts of "go on, go on," notwithstanding the intense heat.

Mr. Watson's speech was a scathing denunciation of alleged extravagance and inefficiency on the part of the national administration in its conduct of the war; an arraignment of the league of nations and the administration's Mexican policy and an explanation of the Cummins-Esch railroad bill. Mr. Watson declared the railroad men were condemning the Cummins-Esch bill without just cause, asserting that the very provision, that of arbitration, which they have especially attacked, had been proven by the unauthorized railroad strike to be the salvation of the railroad unions.

Mr. Watson recited for almost an hour alleged instances of inefficiency and extravagance in the handling of war contracts, cited as proof testimony given before senatorial investigations. He particularly criticised President Wilson for going to Europe to negotiate the peace treaty and for alleged failure to keep the people of the United States and especially congress, informed on the treaty developments.

Arthur L. Garford of Elyria, former progressive, who presided at the rally, declared that any Republican, regardless of his former political connection is not a Republican if he refuses to support Senator Harding and Governor Coolidge, the Republican nominees.

The real harmony keynote of the convention was sounded by Wm. H. Boyd of Cleveland, a Wood delegate-at-large to the Chicago convention.

"We went into the Chicago convention as Republicans" Mr. Boyd said, speaking for himself and the eight other Ohio Wood delegates. "And by the eternal hills we came out as Republicans."

"We went into the Chicago convention," Boyd continued, determined to nominate General Wood and we are as equally determined now to do our highest and levelest best to elect Warren G. Harding."

Mr. Boyd was followed by Harry M. Daugherty, Senator Harding's preconvention campaign manager, whom Boyd defeated for delegate-at-large. He declared that he did not intend to wait "till eleven minutes after two on the afternoon of election day" to decide whom he would support for president and vice president. He felicitated Ohioans on the nomination of Senator Harding and urged a campaign of principles.

Mr. Daugherty brought the delegates to their feet and they gave three rousing cheers as he extended his hand to W. H. Boyd, his successful opponent in the presidential primary.

"I honor and respect the man who honestly and conscientiously antagonizes men in any cause and I honor and respect the man who defeats me," said Daugherty.

COLBY WAGES FIGHT FOR LIGHT WINE AND BEER PLANK IN PLATFORM

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30—Secretary Colby, early this morning was waging a fight in the platform subcommittee for a light wine and beer plank. He was arguing it as a political expedient and not necessarily his personal views.

The fact that Secretary Colby conferred with the president before leaving Washington for San Francisco added significance to his stand.

Some of the committeemen were of the opinion that the Volstead act should be amended so as to make its enforcement less stringent.

A wide variety of suggestions, ranging from the strictest enforcement of the law to Colby's suggestion, were offered. Senator McKellar brought in the Bryan proposal.

The discussions embraced a wide range of subjects, including the league of nations, but prohibition had the floor most of the time.

The sub platform committee adjourned without completing its work early this morning and will meet again at 9:30. No announcement was made by Chairman Glass.

They Look Nifty

New caps for the police force have arrived and have been passed around. These caps were bought with a balance of the money earned by the police when they gave their recent dance.

LEAGUE PLANK AND PROHIBITION PROVE REAL BARRIERS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30—The Democratic platform still was in embryonic stage, but wis prospects of presentation tomorrow to the convention when the platform builders reassembled today.

Although many minor planks had been virtually settled, some in principle only, and others in phraseology as well, most of the troublesome major problems remained unsolved when the sub-committee of nine preparing a tentative draft reconvened today at 9:30 after less than eight hours rest.

With the meeting of the full resolutions committee scheduled for 10 o'clock, the sub-committee arranged to meet with the main body, report partial progress and then resume its labors. By afternoon or night Chairman Glass said, it was hoped to go finally before the full committee where long spirited discussion was in prospect. Wit a late session tonight, leaders hoped to be able to bring the completed product before the convention tomorrow.

The convention proceedings will not interfere with the platform committee continuing their work without interruption as the program calls for the delivery of presidential nominating speeches which will consume virtually all of today's session.

Two Issues Big Barriers

The league of nations and prohibition remained the big barriers to agreement. Adjustment of the league question, however, was said to be in a fair way of realization.

Some of the sub-committee were optimistic over prospects of harmony on this fundamental dispute. They had "stept on" administration and other proposed planks stuffed in their pockets when the meeting broke up shortly before 2 o'clock this morning, and it was asserted by influential sub-committee members that the tentative recommendation of the league and treaty plank would go to the full committee with virtually substantial agreement. Some of the more hopeful even expressed the vie w that the threatened fight in the full committee might be averted.

On prohibition the sub-committee remained largely at sea. All suggestions for a "wet" plank which would declare for repeal of the 18th amendment or annullment of the Volstead enforcement law were said to have been virtually thrown over board by tacit consent in the sub-committee, but the fight for a "beer and wine" plank on one hand and some sort of a prohibition declaration on the other was reported still in progress.

Secretary Colby according to reports was said to be favoring a beer and wine provision. The report was accorded significance because of Mr. Colby's recent conference with President Wilson.

No Basis For Settlement

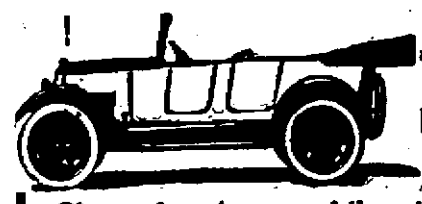

No basis for settlement of the liquor dispute was reported in sight when the sub-committee resumed work today. The drys were said to be insistent upon a prohibition expression, if only to the extent of a plank promising enforcement of the constitution and laws generally and not specifically. The proposal to keep the platform entirely silent on the subject also was still prominently discussed.

OPENING STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 30—Aside from its steadier tone, there were no signs at the opening of today's trading that the stock market would throw off its protracted torpor. A few important issues in the oil, shipping and steel groups recorded advances ranging from liberal fractions to a point, but many former leaders in the industrial and railroad divisions were unquoted in the first 15 minutes trading. Foreign exchange was easy in the preliminary quotations but firmer tendencies were looked for in call and time money rates.

Weather

OHIO—Probably local thunder showers in south and fair weather in north portion tonight and Thursday; slightly cooler in extreme north portion tonight.

PENNY ANTE — The Helping Hand

Rickey Turns Down $200,000 And Three Giant Players For Star Second Sacker

Before leaving the city Monday Manager Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals stated that Manager McGraw recently offered him $200,000 for his star second sacker, Hornsby, and then came back and offered him three players when he turned down the first offer.

"Hornsby is not on the market and will not be on the market, and this is final," Rickey told local friends while in the city.

REDS ARE AFTER UTILITY PLAYERS

CINCINNATI, June 30.—The Board of Directors of the club held a meeting yesterday at which the local sporting writers were present. President Herrmann made a convincing statement to show that the club is sparing no money or effort to strengthen the club and he was corroborated by Manager Moran and Scout McCann. The club is now employing more scouts than any other team in either league and has made very large offers for several first-class minor league players, but cannot obtain them until the close of their seasons. The club has also just refused to waive on two National League players of class and hopes to be lucky enough to secure them. The club made the mistake of starting the season without enough reserve strength, but is doing everything possible to remedy this condition regardless of expense.

NEW RECRUITS JOIN REDLEGS

CINCINNATI, O., June 30.—Two more recruits made their appearance in Cincinnati uniforms Tuesday, and carorted under the watchful eye of Manager Moran and before the population, who looked on in hope that the youngsters will make good. One was Lambert, first baseman of the Bellevue (Ky.) team, and the other was John Lewis Tibbs, of Georgetown, who was unearthed by Silas Sallee. His discoverer declares that Tibbs has the makings of a real twirler and the Reds who studied his performance in practice believe that he is a future star.

Stock And Roush Stage Near Scrap

There must be considerable feeling between the Reds and the Cardinals. During the present bitterly contested series there have been a number of near scraps.

Yesterday Roush and Stock almost got into a fight. Roush was caught off second by Sherdel and Stock. The latter made some insulting remarks to Roush and the latter resented them. Players separated the belligerents. Stock evidently was sore because Roush had just driven in two runs with his timely hit.

Lect Lumber Company went into first place in the Manufacturer's League Tuesday night when they won a walk away game from the Mitchell Manufacturing Company's aggregation by the score of 15 to 6.

The Mitchell bunch was minus the service of Dixon, their star pitcher Tuesday night and with him out of the lineup the team acted like a ship at sea without a pilot at the wheel. Evans who started the game on the mound was found easy by the hard hitting Lects and after two innings he gave way in favor of Pratt who worked three innings, Chilton then taking up the hurling duties.

Higginbotham pitched good ball for Lects and only allowed five clean hits, his team mates making several bad errors behind him. Mitchells need several good players and in a few days will make a demand for more material in order to make their team more evenly balanced with the other teams in the League which have been greatly strengthened in the last week or ten days.

Thursday evening Hibbs Hardware plays Standard Supply, and on Friday night the Portsmouth Hat Co. will play Gilbert Grocery Company. Last night's box score:

WINGO IS SUSPENDED

CINCINNATI, June 30.—Catcher Wingo was indefinitely suspended yesterday by President Heydler for the use of abusive language to Umpire Klem in the sixth inning of the second game of the double header on Saturday. As Bill Rariden is still bothered by a badly bent digit, this means that Nick Allen will have to do all of the catching for the present. Nick can do it all right, but if he should be hurt there would be a mighty dearth of backstops on the team. Perhaps Manager Moran, who was one of the best in his day, might be forced to don the mask and protector again.

Moran Men Are Not Quitters

The Reds are showing the real fighting spirit this season. After dropping three in a row to the Cardinals the team braced and has copped the next two.

This is conclusive proof that the team will not quit under fire. There is no question about the Reds repeating if their pitchers show anywhere near the class they did last year.

In a game that was as full of wrangling as tangles in a kid's curls, the Steel Plant team, champions of the Industrial league, won out over the Arch Preservers at the Seventeenth street yards, last evening, by the score of 6 to 2, due mainly to some wild work on the base paths by the Selbys, coupled with the ability of Carl Whitlatch, eminent southpaw for the Steelmen, to sandwich a strikeout when it would block the Shoeworkers the most effectively.

The Arch Preservers hit the ball hard and viciously, running up a dozen safe blows, but they could not make use of these tingles in anything like the cashing ability of the Steelmen, who made their ten hits off Mr. Lewis bring them a half-dozen runs—and therein lay the difference between the two teams. Its no wonder Manager Joe Brandon has tufts of grey peeping through those inclined-to-be blonde locks of his.

A great throng was out—interest in the league being at fever heat and constantly growing hotter. Umpire Theodore Brantham came in for considerable panning as the result of three close decisions going to the credit of the Steelmen, and there were some close plays last evening. The payers were on their toes all the way and the game was desperately fought, despite the one-sidedness of the score. The Selbys always had a chance, up until the last man was out, but, as stated above, Whitlatch, who took his time and then some, was there with the proper stuff in the pinches and blocked the opposition with a strikeout. He fanned seven men, and five of these fanning bees came with men on the bases and all in a scoring position. The game was a long drawn out affair, extending five minutes over two hours, and the moon was shining bright when the last man was extinguished.

While Mr. Whitlatch deserves all sorts of credit for the victory, let it be said right here that "Ill Henry" Fortner, short-stop for the Steelmen, saved the game for his team when in the sixth frame, with men on second and third, and two men out, he raced over the second bag and nabbed Stewart's hard smash, tossing it to first in plenty of time. It was the best play of the game and saved at least one run and possibly the game. It was one of the best plays of the year. Fortner, by the way, is one of the most promising youngsters in the league and getting better right along.

The game was featured by some real hitting. Hock, short-stop for Selbys, and Kearns, right fielder, going fifty fifty on a half-dozen hits. Manager Brennen helped himself to two swats in three trips. Fortner, Evans and Stillwell of the Champions, secured two hits each, the latter making a triple on his second trip to the plate. He had been presented with a $5.00 bill by Umpire Yenger as a reward for making a home run drive on last Saturday afternoon. The gift was a present from W. W. Bauer, prominent real estate man and 32nd degree fan, and is the fourth William Mr. Bauer has parted with this season. He still has some remaining and the sluggers are advised to go and get them.

By winning last evening, the Steelmen are on their way toward the pennant. They are quite certain they will never be headed off, although Manager Clare is making no predictions at this stage of the game. The team is out there fighting for every point as is its right and duty, and its plays an aggressiveness without which a team can get nowhere. Incidentally the club is playing intelligent baseball, making no brain mistakes—and that is worth a half dozen hits sometimes.

The Steelmen, as is their wont, got the jump on their adversaries in the opening inning, scoring a couple of runs before the opposition could get properly settled. Fortner led off with a bounder to third, which he beat out, and he immediately stole second. Evans shot a single to middle, Fortner scoring. Staten sacrificed very cleverly, Hock tossed high on Connell's roller and Evans raced home. Lewis tightened and allowed no further scoring. In the third the Steelmen earned a run on Stillwell's triple and Davis' single. They went out in order in the fourth and fifth frames, but in the sixth added a run. Stillwell started the aggressiveness with a single to right. Davis, who was batting for Cottrell, walked. Haupt sacrificed. Prediger tried hard for a hit, but his effort was a fly to left, too close in to permit of Stillwell's scoring. Whitlatch, however, clipped a single to left that produced the score.

The Champions made two in the seventh. Fortner singled and went to second on a wild pitch. Evans beat out a well-placed bunt. Fortner scored on Stewart's error at third and Evans came in on Conwell's sacrifice fly to left.

The Arch Preservers made three hits in a row in the second, but did not score. Kearns, Spence and Collis singled in rapid succession, but Kearns was caught at third on Spence's rap, and the succeeding batsmen could not bring the marooned passengers to port. In the third, Hock placed a single to middle and went to second on Stewart's safe blow to the same precinct. Manager Brennen was the man of the hour, shooting a long single to center, Hock scoring. Haupt then dropped Kearn's line drive, Stewart coming in. Spence was hit with a pitched ball and it looked as though the balcon was about to go up. But Whitlatch fanned Collis and Prediger nailed Weber's fly. The score:

Three Great Days At Coney

Flaming red posters are out announcing three big days at Coney Island on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, July 3, 4 and 5. And judging from the interest manifested in the horse races, baseball games and other forms of amusement, Kentucky's model summer resort will entertain great throngs of people on the three days.

The manager of Coney Island, Captain J. S. Davis, has gone to great expense in arranging for the entertainment of the visitors. He has booked some of the best trotting and pacing horses in Ohio and Kentucky for the three days, which will culminate on Monday afternoon with a free-for-all race, in which there is no question, but a low mark will be established for the Coney Island race track, which has been placed in the best possible condition for the performance of the bang tails. On Sunday afternoon, it is arranged to have a game of baseball between the Miracle Men and the Portsmouth Cubs, in addition to two crack horse races on that afternoon. A game of baseball will also be played on Monday afternoon, and in order to accommodate the crowds, the ferryboat will leave the foot of Chillicothe street at 1 and 2 o'clock p. m., central standard time, on the above days. The new merry-go-round is in full operation and is one of the best machines of its kind in these parts.

Political Wisdom.

The conduct of a wise politician never suited to the present posture of affairs. Often by foregoing a part he saves the whole, and by yielding in a small matter secures a greater.—Plutarch.

Daubert Back In Game

Big Jake Daubert was back on first base for the Reds Tuesday. He was hurt in Philadelphia several days ago. His return greatly strengthens the Moran men. Roush returned to center and See to the bench. The latter put up a sterling article of ball while performing in Roush's shoes.

Tennis Club Is Planning To Hold Tournament Here

The Hilltop Tennis Club has decided to build another court so popular is this pastime in that section of the city.

Members of the club are willing to meet all comers and later on a city wide tournament will be arranged by Carl Hauer county recorder. It probably will be held in the early fall when many of the players will be in fine form.

The courts are located on Twenty-Second street and Grandview avenue.

MAULS THE SOUTHPAWS

Every time a southpaw faces the Cardinals McHenry is sent to center field. Mack is poison to the "crooked arms." In his Ohio State League days he used to maul the port flippers.

While in the city the other day Manager Rickey said he would not take $25,000 for the Adams county boy.

You tell 'em Interurban I am off my trolley.

Monk Comes After "Duds"

Catcher Monk of this city, who recently joined the St. Louis team was in the city last night. He came here after his "duds" as he is going to stick with the Cardinals. Rickey is partial to young backstops and he has made a real catcher out of Dilhoefer.

Monk rejoined his team this morning.

Selby Girls Bowling League

The race in the Girls' Bowling League is getting more close and exciting each game. Last evening Polly's Pals, who hold the enviable first place, were sadly beaten by the Fixers, who completely walked away with the first two games. The dazed Polly and her Pals tried to rally in the last game, and succeeded in so far as to get 67 more pins than the Fixers.

On Thursday night of this week, the Hoodlums and Getapins roll.

Absolutely No More Twins.

A year ago last Christmas twins came to Bobby's house. As last Christmas drew near grandma asked Bobby what he wanted Santa Claus to bring. "Well," he answered, "most anything, except no more twins."

CITY'S OFFICIAL SMILE IS NAUGHTY, NICE

Miss Doris May and the official Los Angeles smile.

Los Angeles, Cal., has adopted an official smile, being the first city in the world to take this means of boosting its civic assets. Sponsors for the smile say it is designed to portray the sunny disposition of the city folk and the sunny weather of the city. Miss Doris May, movie star, was asked to show outside folk the smile. It's a sort of naughty smile—with that sly wink. But it's nice.

Everything Arranged For Big Games

W. N. Gableman, owner of the "All Stars" has returned from Cincinnati where he not only saw the Reds hand a trimming to the Cardinals, but completed all arrangements for the appearance of the Urichs at Millbrook Park on next Sunday and Monday afternoons. The Urichs, it will be recalled, played the All Stars at Millbrook Park on the afternoon of May 23 and were defeated by the locals, 4 to 3, after one of the greatest games ever witnessed in these parts. The Urichs presented their full strength, with their crack moundsman, Mason, the three fingered marvel, on the mound. The game went to eleven innings and was hard fought all the way.

Owner Gableman states that the Urichs will be here with the same line up and that Mareus will pitch one of the games, probably the one on Monday which will be observed as the Fourth of July. Arrangements will be completed to care for the vast throngs that are expected to assemble at the park on both afternoons. The fans of Portsmouth are anxiously awaiting the reappearance of the Urichs, who stamped themselves as being wonderful ball players and gentlemen in every sense of the word.

On Saturday and Sunday, July 10 and 11, the Mark-Greys, led by Homer Cain and Stewart Diits will be the opponents of the All Stars at Millbrook.

THE EXPECTED OCCURS

ADMIRATION for the political experts, foregathered in vast numbers and profound wisdom, at San Francisco, is not raised to the bubbling point, when outcome is compared to their predictions.

For ten days and more they have been regaling the country with dark forebodings of opposition to the administration and uncertainty as to eventual outcome, when here comes the real news that the forces friendly to the administration had not only swept the platter clean, but that the opposition wasn't strong enough to assume the stature of a respectable minority. More significant still, with a hindsight that has no peer, these same experts tell us that the tribute the convention gave to Wilson himself had a thrill and a heart-feeling, the like of which had never been seen before in a national assembly.

There never should have been any doubt, let alone any intimation, that results would be otherwise. Set it down in the first place that a party never has repudiated its administration and never will, unless in such dire straits therewith as are inconceivable. In the second place, there is in the performances of the Democratic administration much to warm the partisan heart to its very cockles, when they are recounted by so skillful an advocate and compeling orator as Chairman Cummings proved himself to be. Why, take the war, so magnificently prosecuted and so gloriously won, there is enough in that alone, when eloquent tongue comes to reciting its story, to cause red blood to run riot. Heap on the fact that in all his service President Wilson has been sorely beset with troublesome problems, with no man ever so abused and villified, even in desperate illness, and you have ample to set the human heart to throbbing and throat to tumultuous pæns.

THE LOW WATER MARK

THE giving out of the first count of a state, Delaware, bears out the general assumption, that the country at large will show the smallest per cent gain in population ever shown by a census.

Delaware's gain was a trifle over one per cent for each year of the decade. The country may, as a whole, show greater increase, but not likely a substantial one. The reasons why it will not are threefold and evident. The chief one is that for five years of the ten there has been no immigration. Broadly speaking, before the war, a million foreigners used to come to this country every year. Practically all of this annual increase has been lost. In the second place and contrawise, for the same period, foreigners have been going back home in increasing number and several hundred thousand have been lost from this cause. Lastly the war and two epidemics have caused an estimated loss of half a million by an abnormal death rate.

The descent of population gain to the low water mark is not the chief evil the census will show. That will appear in the presentation of the growth of cities and towns at the expense of the country. It is the universal testimony of history that the closer the population is kept to the soil the more virile and virtuous it is. America is moving rapidly from the soil and always with increased momentum. It is not a healthy movement. To it may be ascribed much of the disturbance and unrest that fret the present times.

According to the probate clerk at Columbus June is the best month for marriages. By careful data he finds that divorces are sought in only five per cent of marriages in this month, while in all the others the per centage runs up to 9 per cent. His explanation is that June marriages are longer engagements and the man and girl come to understand each other better before "tying up."

Some dozen or more of favorite sons will be voted for on the first ballot, and the first ballot only, at the San Francisco convention. This is an absurdity, but a good thing at that. It will eventually kill the whole favorite son absurdity.

San Francisco, it is admitted a long ways from here, but at the distance it looks like Ohio had committed a blunder there in voting for the seating of Jim Reed, and the worst of it is it's one that counts in the ready use of it against her.

There are correspondents of all degrees of fame and some of none at all, at San Francisco, but in Abe Martin, the plain and unpretentious Hoosier observer and philosopher, The Times claims to be superior of them all. He has the Democratic spirit and instinct and he talks in a homely fashion that is appealing in its kindly humor. One of his special felicities was in referring to Bryan as the Star of Hope of the Republican party. Baker and Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League, who are at Frisco, have in him a spokesman after their own hearts.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

by PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

THE AWAKENING

July 8.—Went to my studio for the first time in more than a week today. My, but it was good to get back there again. Finished that painting of myself and it looks pretty good to me.

Got another canvas ready to start that head of Cecil tomorrow, for he has promised to pose for me. He has such a handsome profile that it will be a pleasure to work on it. He seemed awful pleased to help me out. I suspect it is mostly because he knows that by so doing he will be alone with me for an hour or two a day!

Just as I was fixing things up the 'phone rang and no other person than Brixy was on the wire. It seemed ages since I had seen or heard from him, poor dear, and I told him to come right over and keep me company.

He came, fairly beaming with happiness to see me again. I must say that it seems as though I had been living for ages since I last thrilled to Brixy's looks of admiration. Can't explain why, but I think that it is because I have had the dark eyes of Cecil and Prince Charming playing tricks with my heart and imagination. Must be that. In other words, I have grown up with a bound!

I feel a wee bit sad about this sudden leap into the land of the fully developed grown-ups, somehow or other. I know that my girlish peace of mind has gone forever. I am a restless young woman and full of knowledge and you know that old saying about a little knowledge being a dangerous thing?

My life can never be the same sing-song sort of existence that it was before I kissed—other men. I am deeply alive to my own powers and I have felt men tremble at my nearness. That, in itself, is dangerous and disturbing. My extreme girlhood seems very far behind me just now. I guess that I am what you call awakened! And I've always wondered just what that meant in regard to a woman. Have read about it in all sorts of books and magazines and been always curious. Now I have experienced for myself. Aunt Cecilia is right. I must go through the flame and be burnt, not listen to others.

So it was that my old playmate, Brixy, struck me as being a thing of the past, the extreme past, quite a child in fact, though very sweet and dear to me.

He too saw a change in me, for he said several times: "Lindy, dear, what have you been doing to yourself. You act so grown-up and different. Why, your very face has changed." But of course that was all imagination on his part.

I soon convinced him that to him I was, and always would be, the same old Lindsey, which seemed to cheer him considerably.

And to think that not so long ago I was sure that I was madly in love with Brixy, that he fulfilled my every dream of perfect manhood, and that I had even thought of him as a possible husband and the father of several little Lindseys (that was all a year ago before I had decided that no child should enter my life before I was twenty-five years of age, of course.) And it just goes to show you how often a girl of nineteen changes her mind. So why marry?

Brixy and I spent the rest of the afternoon in swapping jokes, like any two kids, in fact. I find that with him I become a happy, untroubled kiddie, and it's awfully sweet. It also proves that I do not love him nor even a teeny, weeny bit! How funny, after all my thoughts of a few weeks ago.

BILLY WHISKERS

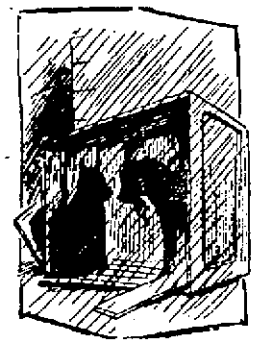

by FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

When Billy Jr. found that he had crawled under the same box with a little yellow doggie, he said: "Well, what are you doing here?"

"That is the question I was about to ask you," replied the dog.

"I came in to get out of the rain because all the other places were shut," said Billy Jr.

"And I came here because I live here. This is the only home I know," answered the dog.

"Oh, if that is the case I will be going, as I do not wish to intrude."

"You are perfectly welcome to stay and share the shelter of my home, poor as it is," said the dog, whose name was Stubby.

"You are exceedingly kind," replied Billy. "I will gladly stay if only for your company. I hate being out alone in a thunder storm."

After this they became very well acquainted and prolonged their talk far into the night, exchanging confidences and experiences.

As you all know Billy's history, I will not repeat what he told the dog but will confine myself to the sad story of Stubby's life.

Stubby was undoubtedly of common parentage with not a drop of blue blood in his veins, but he had plenty of good red blood, so he did not care, only he often thought it would be very nice to be petted and fed as thoroughbreds were. This wish, however, only came on days when he had nothing to eat but a piece of mouldy bread from the garbage box and nothing to drink but water out of a mud puddle. On other days he would not exchange his lot for that of a King Charles lying on a satin cushion on my lady's boudoir, or taken for a walk at the end of a silver chain?

No, he would not change his free, roving life and home in a packing box for all the satin cushions in the world. He felt that he should sicken and die shut up in a home, fed on bonbons, and only allowed to run to the length of a short chain. To be sure, it must be nice to have for a mistress a pretty lady who would stroke you with her soft white hand, or a sweet little girl to romp and play with, but one could not have these joys without the evils of being shut up in an overheated house, and that he knew he could not stand.

He had been born under a barn standing in the suburbs of San Francisco. His father he had never seen and his mother was a small yellow dog like himself, only she had a tail that curled in a beautiful manner once and a half times around, of which she was very proud. His tail had curled in this same way until some bad boys caught him and cut it off.

(More of Stubby's life story tomorrow.)

WHO'S WHO In The Days News

MRS. PHILIP SNOWDEN

MRS. SNOWDEN

Mrs. Philip Snowden, the noted English radical and Socialist, who recently returned from Russia as a member of the British labor delegation investigating conditions there, has made the interesting statement that soviet Russia has nothing to teach western Europe. Her conclusions will be taken seriously by British radicals because of her known sympathy for bolshevism before she studied it at short range.

Mrs. Snowden is very well known in America. She toured the country for suffrage in 1908, and during the summer and fall of 1915 she attended various women's conferences throughout the U. S. and was a delegate to the women's peace congress held in San Francisco.

Philip Snowden, the distinguished lady's husband, is a member of parliament from Blackburn and is one of the most influential men in the labor party. She will almost certainly be a candidate for parliament on the labor ticket at the next general election. An important plank in her platform will be universal disarmament, a doctrine which she has preached for many years.

Three Girls

(Century)

Three school girls pass this way each day:
Two of them go in the flattery way
Of girls, with all that girlhood buys;
But one goes with a dream in her eyes.

Two of them have the eyes of girls
Whose hair is learning scorn of curls,
But the eyes of one are like wide doors
Opening out on misted shores.

And they will go as they go today
On to the end of life's short way;
Two will have what living buys,
And one will have the dream in her eyes.

Two will die as many must,
And fitly dust will welcome dust;
But dust has nothing to do with one—
She dies as soon as her dream is done.

New-York - Day - By - Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 30—

Away up in Bronx Park.

There is a beautiful lake.

Set between quiet hills.

And the other day.

I climbed up on a bluff.

And watched blue herons.

Those wading birds.

With long necks and legs.

And I got to laughing.

A sad eyed fellow came along.

And he had a notebook.

And very soulful eyes.

And he was speaking.

Some vagrant lines.

About the blue herons.

Sailing against the mist.

Athwart the purple hills.

And I knew what he was.

But I like poets.

I wanted to be one myself.

And used to write poetry.

To the girl who is my wife.

And it was awful sloppy.

And when she reads it.

When company is around.

I look like a fool.

And there is one silly line.

Where I said something.

About my love being as constant.

As the ripples on an angry sea.

And you know boys.

How that kind of stuff.

Makes you feel 10 years.

After you marched to the alter.

But I am digressing.

The poet sat down by me.

And told me he was a hidalgo.

And I thought he meant.

He was just a wop.

But I looked it up.

And its a born nobleman.

And they come from Spain.

But anyway I had a pencil.

And showed it to him.

To prove I was a writer.

And we wrote a poem.

And sent it to Snappy Stories.

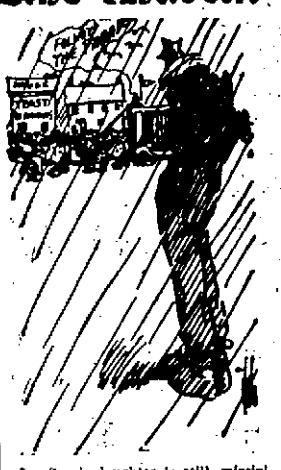

And it just came back today.

With a rejection slip.

And that is why.

I happened to write this.

Robert McCorkel, one of the most popular young men in the city, will guide the Masonic Junior Bowling League through the season of 1920-21. This was decided at the annual meeting of the league held at the Temple last evening, at the conclusion of a bountiful chicken dinner served by the good women of the First Presbyterian church and to which every member of the league present did ample justice. Mr. McCorkle was named president to succeed James Yeley, who guided the league so skillfully through its first season and who is one of the most enthusiastic players in the league.

The Wonders, captained by William Crichton won the championship and were presented with a very artistic pennant of blue flannel, with white lettering. The pennant will be framed and presented to the Athletic Association, under whose control the Junior League will play henceforth. The individual members of the Wonders were presented with pearl handle pocket knives of a very costly nature, while Bryson West was given a safety razor for making the single high score of 222. To show their appreciation of the work of Eddie Pressler, custodian of the Play House alleys, who kept records standing right up to the handle, they presented him with a fine leather belt.

The league decided to join the Masonic Athletic Association in a body, and a player to participate in the league next season will have to pay the initiation dues of $1.00 into the treasury of the Athletic Association. This many of the players did last evening. It was also decided that no player would be eligible to any individual prizes unless he participated in at least 66 2-3 per cent of his games.

In all, more than thirty members were present and enthusiasm ran high. The league was formed primarily to take care of the overflow in the Major Masonic League, and while it operated under its own corps of officers it received the advice of the directors of the older organization. Now that it has taken itself from under the wings of its parents, it will go it alone, or operate under the direction of the Athletic Association. The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Robert McCokle, Vice president, Ben Cross, secretary Vernon Smith, treasurer Henry Ruggles; directors, Harry Flowers, Walter Bierley and Bryson West.

STORM RAGES OVER ISSUES IN THE COMMITTEE

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 30—Open warfare over prohibition, the Irish question and other troublesome issues of the Democratic platform began yesterday in a storm-swept committee hearing, while in private the leaders continued their negotiations for a settlement to keep hostilities from spreading to the floor of the convention itself.

A momentary defeat was administered the Bryan dry legions in the full platform committee when a parliamentary battle for position on the speaker's list was decided in favor of the wets by a vote of 27 to 25.

The general inclination, however, was to discount the significance of the vote, which was taken to decide which side should speak first.

In the skirmish both wet and drys argued that their opponents were trying to re-open the prohibition issue and therefore should present their case first. When the drys were forced to go ahead, Mr. Bryan took charge of the time allotted to that side, but divided all of it among other speakers representing the Anti-Saloon League, church associations and other prohibition organizations.

For the wets, W. Bourke Cockran, of New York, was the chief spokesman during a debate in which Mr. Bryan was called upon to explain his connections with the Anti-Saloon League. He denied that he ever had received compensation from the league, except for "four months last year, for certain public speeches."

Irish Issue Starts Furore

The Irish issue was argued in such militant fashion that the crowded committee room was in almost constant uproar. Opponents of the proposal for recognition of the Irish republic were kept under a hail of heckling and derision from Irish sympathizers, and once or twice were called short and ugly words while the committee chairman pounded, unheeded, with his gavel and sergeants at arms tussled with the crowd in an ineffectual effort to keep order.

The argument for the Irish recognition plank was led by Frank P. Walsh and the opposition was headed by Damarest Lewis, of Boston, president of the Loyal Coalition.

Gompers Before Committee

Labor's platform was presented to the committee by Samuel Gompers, who declared the Republican party had written reaction on its banners and that the Labor vote must find some avenue for expression of its desires.

The League of Nations, another subject threatening a convulsion floor fight, was not mentioned during the day's hearings, but there were many suggestions on almost every other political subject, probably the committee's deliberations into the evening.

Approval of compulsory marketing by farmers also was urged by Dr. W. H. Walker, president of the California farm bureau of the federation. He also disapproved of government ownership or operation of railroads.

Resolutions for compensating ex-service men, presented by Richard A. Jones, of the Washington delegation, provide for "selective or optional compensation," and condemned the "hyper-critical conduct of the Republican congress" on the bonus bill.

Jap Plank Up

A plank to deal with Japanese immigration and land ownership was submitted by V. S. McClatchey, of Sacramento. It would "favor laws prohibiting for the exclusion of non assimilable peoples," and forbidding those already here ownership and control of the soil.

Mr. McClatchey had calculated, he told the committee, that at the present rate of increase there would be 100,000,000 Japanese in the country at the end of forty years.

The plank was supported by Senator Phelan, of California.

A Philippine independence plank was asked by J. P. Melencio, representing the Filipino mission, and by Resident Commissioner Rafferty. The contended the Filipinos had demonstrated their capacity for immediate independence. The appeals of Mr. Melencio brought the convention and spectators to their feet in cheers, the first incident of the kind during the hearings.

Mrs. William C. Kent, of California, representing the women's international league for peace and freedom, urged a program to forward world peace.

The plank for inland waterway development was presented by Edward F. Goltra, national committeeman for Missouri, and James E. Smith, of St. Louis, president of the Inland Waterway Association.

COX DIVORCE TALK ACTS AS BOOMERANG ON FOE

COLUMBUS, O., June 30—A special dispatch to the Ohio State Journal from San Francisco last night says in part:

"McAdoo workers today joined the Palmer forces in using the divorce argument against Gov. Cox.

"There is an unmistakable resentment among many delegates against the injection of the Cox divorce talk. The governor's management contends that it has acted as a boomerang against those who have been floating it.

"The Cox forces seemed entirely satisfied with the situation today. New converts to the cause of the Buckeye governor were claimed. It was said the Maryland delegation was his.

"Just when some of the ultra wets were reported to be weakening in their enthusiasm for Cox, the Anti-Saloon League gave them new faith in the form of a statement attributing to the governor nearly everything the Ohio Home Rule Association has adopted in years."
